PROSPECTUS OF THE MANTON COPPER
MINING COMPANY.—LIMITED.
Capital—20,000 in 4000 Shares of £5 cach.
It is proposed to form a JOINT STOCK COMPANY, with limited liability, for the purpose of raising the necessary capital to work the copper mise known as the Manton Mine, situated on 80 acres of land purchased by Mr. F. Manton, in the Port Curtis district, about 45 miles from Rockhampton.
It is submitted to the public that the Manton Mine, by the excellent quality of the ore already produced, though the sinking has not yet exceeded 30 feet, by the promise of great abundance, given by numerous outcrops in all parts of the hill in which it is situated and by its proximity to water carriage—the distance from Rockhampton not exceeding 45 miles, offers prospective advantages unequalfed by any other mine in Eastern Australia. A noticeable feature in the overs from this mine, is the considerable percentage of silver they contain, viz., eight ounces per ton from the surface ores, and it is predicted by competent judges, that the ratie will greatly increase as greater depths are obtained.

It is proposed to allot to the public 3000 shares of £5 each, forming a working capital of £15,000, the present proprietor receiving for his interest 1000 shares of £5 each, which are to be considered as paid up, to be received by him as follows: 250 shares on the formation of the Company, 250 as soon as 50 tons of ore are rafsed, and the remaining 500 as soon as 60 tons of ore are rafsed, and the remaining 500 as soon as the Company pay a dividend cut of the profits.

The aberse will be allotted in the order of application to be paid for as follows:—Ten shillings per share on application; ten chillings per share on allotment; and the remainder as may be considered necessary by the Directors of the Company will be allotted in the order of application to be paid for as follows:—Ten shillings per share on allotment; and the remainder as may be considered necessary by the Directors of the Company.

A general meeting of the Defive the 1st of september, the deposit will be returned in full.

Applications for shares in the form annexed to be sent in to LENNON and CAPE, brokers, 136, Terry's-buildings, Pitt-street North, where further information respecting the proposed Company may be obtained.

PORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

To the Provisional Committee of the Manton Copper Mining Company, hanted:
GENELEMEN—I sequest that you will allot me shares in the above company, on which I herewith hand you a deposit of ten shillings per share; and I agree to accept on the terms of the prospectus all such shares, or any less number you may allot me, and to pay calls on the same.

GRAVING DOCKS AND ENGINEERING

WORKS IN WATERVIEW BAY.

This large increase in our coasting and intercolonial sailing and steam marine, and the periodical ecepanacy of Mort's Dry Dock by the P. and O. S. M. Company's pail steamahips, have rendered it expedient to Increase the graving accommodations in Waterview Bay, and Mr. T. S. Mort has accordingly determined to have constructed, under the direction of Captain Rountree, a capacious hydraolic ahipway on the morth side of the Dry Dock, upon whose cradle ships of 1000 tons burthen may be repaired.

Of late years great improvements have been make in those ingenious contrivances for what is nautically termed "heaving up" vessels from the water as the land by allps or inclined ways, for purposes of repair, &c., and in the design for the new shipway that we are adversing to, its advantageous situand the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large area of ground will permit of the sday, and the large process.

The traction line will consist of solid stonewer, the length out of water being 300 feet, the width it is by three steps, twelve inches in depth. Below the water line, the floor, 400 feet in length, will be hid with massive ironbark rails, firmly bound with important to the same permit of the same p to give the cotter a tendency to again descend into the spaces in the chain as they pass under it. When the rams arrive at the end of their return stroke, the cocks are again closed by a tappet coming against a lever, and the whole of the apparatus of this set remains stationary until the other rams again move the valve rod. Thus the operation goes on continuously, so long as the pumps weaked by a high-pressure steam-engine of twenty horse-power supply this hydrostatic press, whose construction, complicated as it appears in description, will, it is confidently anticipated, enable its operations to be performed with the utmost fadilty. No expense will be spared to render this the times efficient work of the kind yet produced in the Australian colonies, the cost being estimated at £20,000; and the work during its progress will, undoubtedly, be carefully regarded by all who take an interest in engineering science.

Since the opening of Mort's Dry Dock, in 1886, considerable improvements and additions have been made, and are still in progress. Excavated out of the solid sandstone rock, it was not at that time deemed necessary, by reason of the high rates of wages, to line the dock with masonry. Lately, however, means have been set to finish the basin, by liming the sides and constructing steps, at proper intervals, to the floor. But the most material addition to the dock is the recent fitting up of something pumps, of 36 inches calibre, davan hy a £4½ hose high pressure steam engine, of wiffeient capacity to discharge 12,000 tons of water from the bish in six hours. In that time the keel of the steamhily Jeddo was out of the water when she went into the dock asher her last voyage; and by this means a ship of the heaviest tomage requiring overhauling can be received into dock and returned to her place of loading, in any part of Port Jackson, is twelve hours, whatever may be the state of the lide. And here it may be desirable to advert, for the inflymation of water within a few feet of the masgin; and being perfectly dock, whose present dimensions, with every facility for increasing the length, are Resadi at entrance, 72 feet; interior, 80 feet; depth of water on the caiseon sill, 21 feet at high water; length of keel floor of the beatin, 400 feet.

The adjuncts for building and repairing sailing or steam ships, whether of timber or iron, are now complete; and the engineering works on the north side of the dry-dock, with the expacious ship-building yad on the south, combine to render the establishments of Waterview Bay the most perfect in the Southers Hemisphere, for the provision of every requisite accommodation and convenience for vessels of all classes and all nations. And these great works, it must be remembered, see the result of the satisfying of his ceadjutor, Captain Rountree; and we question if in any other part of the British dominions such a comprehensive design has been attempted by distinct or single action.

We may add, that in the engineers' department a large iron boiler, for the steamship Tasmania, as in course of completion, as also a boiler for Donaldson's flour mills at Tenterfield. The stern paddle steamboat Umarra, built for the Clarence River trade, to the order of the C. and R. R. B. N. GUNDAROO, JULY 16.—I have it from a reliable authority that there are large numbers arriving daily at Brook's Creek, and a good few are leaving, as is the case at all diggings. Refore the diggings turn out snything the people must spread themselves over the ranges, for there is gold for a considerable distance all round; it only requires looking for. I heard Massey party (the original prospecting party) had 2 lbs. gold for sale, the produce of their working for this sematime back; others have small quantities. Ploughing is now nearly completed, but the weather has been greatly sgainst such operations. We have now had for nearly a fortnight cold, raw days, with heavy sain at intervals. We have now had sufficient to allow the ploughing to go on, and the ground is quite full. If the rain keeps on much longer, I expect we shall soon hear of a flood.— Yaus Overier.

MOUNTAIN RUN CREEK DIOGINGS.—We have received a communication from Cole Hole Creek, intimating that about three weeks ago a party of Chinasmen commenced digging on the Mountain Run Creek, and at a depth of about sixteen feet they came upon good washing stuff containing a quantity of heavy gold. Since then the creek has been occupied by a good number of Chinese, and it is said that not less than 500 of them are at work there at present, and they continue to arrive on the ground dily is parties of forty and fifty each. The whole of these at present at work appear to be doing well, and when ashed their opinion of the diggings they say "better than Native Dog Creek; more money for gold." The average depth of the simking appears to be from sixteen to twenty feet. There is a good dray road from Bathurst by the "Long Swanp" and "One Ryeto these diggings. Eachherst five Fress.

Business during the past month has been quiet, and the activity noticed in our markets at the departure of the last mail, has almost ceased. As, however, this is about the dullest season of the year, this inactivity is not surprising. There is still a fair demand for goods for New Zealand and Queensland, and as holders of goods are not anxious to force sales -prices of some articles have been well main-tained.

The arrivals this day have been the Japanese The arrivals this day have been he Japanese from London, with a general cargo; the Native Lass, Hargraves, Ann and Maris, and William Buchanan, from Van Diemen's Land, with timber, wheat, and potatees; and the Yarra, from the South Sea Islands, with 57 casks

The former is rather dull of sale, but the latter commands full prices. First brands of ale are worth 9s. 3d. to 10s.; porter, 10s. 6d. to 11s. Brandy is a little firmer; Martell's is worth 11s. 3d. to 11s. 6d., and at these rates sales have been made; Hennessey's, 10s. 3d. to 10s. 9d. Rum is not quite so firm; 30 o.p. is quoted 3s. 10d. to 4s., and 10 o.p. 3s. 2d. to 3s. 4d. Geneva is not so firm, in consequence of advices of some large shipments having been made; first brands, of low strengths and small quantities, are quoted at 14s. 6d. to 15s. Whisky is dull of sale; Irish, 4s. to 4s. 6d.; Scotch, 4s. In wines there has not been much doing, and the speculation in ports noticed last month has ceased. SHEEPSKINS are a little firmer, and are worth from 5d. to 9d. per lb.

TALLOW—The market is not so firm, and a decline of 20s. to 30s. per ton has been submitted to, and at this decline purchases were more freely made at auction both by the trade and buyers for shipmant. The following are the latest quotations:—Beef. £38 to £39 10s.; mutton, £41 to £44; station, £33 to £40.

HIDES.—Shortly after the departure of the mail an advance of la. to 1s. 6d. took place in heavy hides, but since the arrival of the late Faglish news, prices have again given way, and buyers are unwilling to operate except at a reduction of 2s. on late rates. The highest CIGARS.—This market is most eccentric; stocks very limited, and yet averaging nil to the importer. But that light freight is required for our sugar ships, the cigar trade from Manila would die out as an unprofitable investment.

Messrs. L. E. Threlkeld and Co. held an important sale of oilmen's stores, general groceries, &c., on luceday last, which attracted a large attendance. The whole of the shipment were disposed of at satisfactory rates. The oilmen's stores per Strathdon were principally Copeland and Co.'s goods, many of which realised extreme lates.

A large sale of hardware and general ironmongery we also held on the following day, when the prices obtained for many articles showed an improvement on former sales.

NAMOI RIVER, JULY 10.—Such is the state of the weather here that for the present all travalling is stopped. It rains more or less every day, the river is bank high, and has been these last three weeks. There are a number of teams (some seventeen) between this and the Rock Inn, all laden for the Lower Namoi and Barwin rivers. I am informed by a gentleman who has lately come up the river, that there is great scarcity of flour at many stations, and, as far as appearance go, there is little chance of travelling for some time to come. This has been so far a very severe winter with us. Amongst the many tenders advertised in the Government Gassets is see none for the improvement of any part of the Gwydir district. If our model Government would only take compassion on us, and give us at least one-tenth of our land rents and assessment, they would do us no more than justice. But what can we expect from such rulers, except empty promises, never intended to be realised. The powers that be have a pet system of bamboozling the country, which they will repent some day in sackcloth and sabes, in the loss of the loaves and fishes. Our Government runs upon cogwheels, oiled by the soothing balm of Mr. Robertson's free selection scheme. It will take rank with many more of that gentleman's dramstic abortions.

A Norontous House Stralle has been captured at Walget by the police and committed to Tamwerth to take his trial. He arrived at the public-house with a stolen horse, and got up in the night and took Mr. Hooth's, the publicans' horse. The thief was overtaken after a hot purquit. It appears that he is one of a gong of scoundrels well known to the authorities.

I would call your attention to the case of an unfortunate man, who has been confined in the lock-up at the Wee Wes, since the 10th of February last, on suspicion of forgery. It is really an act of cruelty to detain may man in such a miserable hole for such a length of time merely on suspicion. It is an act of cruelty unprecedented i

EAST MAITLAND.

MUNICIPALITY MESSENG — On Thursday evening last a meeting took place at the Mechanics' Institution, East Maitland, for the purpose of adopting a petition to the Governor, praying for the incorporation of the town. The meeting was a very demonstrative one, and auther exciting, the show of hands being so nearly equal on the first motion that the assembly had to divide. The petition having been read, Mr. John Borthwick proposed, and Mr. Wright seconded, "That the petition now read be adopted by this meeting, and forwarded to his Excellency the Governor-in-Chief."

An amendment was then moved by Mr. Farthing, and seconded by Mr. Kingsmill, "That this meeting be postponed till this day twelve months." On division, the amendment was declared to be lost, and the original motion carried smidst much excitement. It was then moved by Mr. A. Dodds, scoanded by Mr. Armstrong, and carried, "That the following gentlemen, viz., Messrs. Dodds, Chambers, O' Meagher, Davidson, Borthwick, Nainby, M'Laughlin, Long, Kingsmill, Brunker, Ogg, Mount, Field, and Stewart, with power to add to their number, be appointed a committee to obtain signatures to the petition, to forward it to the Governor, and otherwise to carry out its objects." After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting (which was a large one, the hall being filled) dispersed.

VOLUNTEER CAVALRY.

To the Editor of the Heveld.

Sin,— As the letter of your correspondent "Quis" is calculated to convey an erroneousimpression concerning the conduct of the Colonial Secretary in reference to the proposed new cavalry corps, I trust you will allow me space for a few words of explanation.

It was at first understood that as soon as twenty-five gentlemen had signified their intention of joining the Light Horse, a meeting should be called. This was not done, but instead, one of the members took upon himself to forward the roll privately to the Colonial Secretary, from whom, in due time, an answer was for warded to the effect that the services of the Light Horse could not be accepted. The members themselves then took the matter up. Meetings were held, the application to the Government was renewed, and, finally, a deputation of six gentlemen was appointed to wait upon Mr. Cowper, but through no proper communication being forwarded to them by the secretary, the matter fell into the same hands as before. This took place last week only, and I have no doubt that but for the recent proceedings at Burrangong, an answer would ere this have been made known to the members.

Of the mature of that snawer, I think there can be little doubt. There exists in England a regulation by which all volunteer cavalry within the same county or district shall adopt a similar uniform. The reasons for this must be obvious, and they have additional force in the colony, where cavalry cannot become so numerous as in any of the country districts of England. That regulation will, therefore, be accepted although as I am well informed the Government are willing to increase the cavalry force in Sydney, it will be conditionally that the uniform shall be similar to that of the copps already in existence. The services of the Light Horse will, therefore, be accepted, although the Government will readily receive the names of its members, if they like to comstitute th

To the Beiter of the Herald.

Sir.—Your correspondent, "Mescator" appears to have overlocked the fact that the capital of this bank has been increased by three hundred thousand pounds (£30,000), one-fourth of which, seventy, five thousand pounds (£75,000), has been paid up since the last dividend, which was upon seven hundred thousand pounds (£70,000), was declared. So that the figures of the capital paid up, seven hundred and seventy-five thousand pounds (£76,75,000), and amount of last dividend declared, twenty-four thousand five hundred pounds (£24,500), are correct.

With respect to the differences in the amount of reserved profits remarked upon by "Mercator," the words "at the time of" should be substituted for "after," in the last line of the return, which would then read thus:—

Reserved profits at the time of declaring such dividend, £72,857 2s. 7d. The return so amended will spear in the next Government Geotte.

Pasnonal Property.—On Wednesday, Mr. Godfrey disposed of the Arranagong station, Wedden Mountain, by public auction, for £1370, the purchaser being Mr. P. H. Throsby, of Throsby Park, near Bevrima.—Yass Couvier.

The Fox of the Hen Roost.—For some time past, Mr. Girvan, of Major's Creek, has observed a sensible diminution of the number of his fewls, and he natuturally became anxious to know where the missing fowls went to. The mystery was elucidated after a careful watch being exercised. In the stable behind a cask of provender he found portions of eight fowls and a duck, and it was not long before a large native cat made his appearance to feast upon his prey. The marander perceiving that his whereabouts was ducovered, made a speedy exit, but a favourite dog of Mr. Girran's got upon his seent, and soon despatched him.—Braidwood Observer.

Mone Sticking our.—On Saturday last, the inhabitants of the public-house at Chesher's Creek were 'bailed up'' under the following circumstances:—During the day, the house was rather thronged with customers, amongst whom were a party of diggens, and three strange men. After staying for some time at the house, the three individuals referred to left, and everything remained quiet until the evening, when the house was entered by three ruffins, with their faces blacked, who at once "bailed up" the whole of the inmates—two of them standing sentry, with loaded pistols, while the third searched the unlucky individuals, and cased them of their valuables. The amount of money taken, it is believed, was something considerable. One individual, luckier than the rest, happened to be at the back part of the house when the robbers made the stack, and had just time to take his money out of his pocket and throw it into a horse trough before he was seen. After about twenty minutes rummaging, the scoundrels took their departme. It is believed that they were the same three individuals who had been drinking at the publ

SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1861.

Trees mail will leave us during a pause in that political strife by which the colony has been distracted since the initiation of Responsible Government. It will be probably renewed with or the first strong indications of new combina-tions of parties. The issue of the next struggle will be not an abstract question of reform so much as the security of property—whether, in short, there shall be in Government an element capable of resisting the force of mere element capacite of resisting the force of mere numbers, and preserving society from convul-sion. The experience of the last two years has doubtless lowered the tone of popular passions. It is discovered that while vague threatenings, followed by the practical exclusion of respectability from legislation, are not favourable to the investment of capital—to the undertaking f extensive works-to the enterprise of men who have something to lose, the inevitable re-action of their distrust on all forms of employment, adds nothing to the wages, and therefore to the comforts of the working classes. It was until lately in vain to insist upon the most obvious doctrines of political economy. All who asserted what would have been deemed who asserted what would have been deemed truisms among moderately educated radicals at home were set down as enemics of the people. The many have had possession of power, and the result has disappointed them. Except the passing of municipal laws which were mere imitations, Responsible Government has accomplished nothing. Well meaning men, who were seduced by specius critical and the second of the second o who were seduced by specious cries, are gene-rally convinced that they must look for safe and intelligent government in the union of allwhatever may have been their original politica parties-who meet on a common ground, secause in the colonies there is no furthe to dispute on those questions which once divided

The re-constitution of the Upper House has produced a somewhat favourable effect upon the commercial and landed interests. On the commercial and landed interests. On the arrival of the present Governor, his Ministry proposed an immense creation of members to carry a particular measure which, however, would have passed had they waited for three or four hours.

The "Swampers," as they are called, never were admitted to their seats, and the expecta tions they formed of being nominated for life have been signally disappointed. The new House since constituted for life in place of that which then expired by effluxion of time, com-prehends men of undoubted fitness, and embraces persons who voted on different on many important questions.

Sir JOHN YOUNG was unfortunate in the first act of his government, when he created legis-tors for a day. The sudden explosion of the scheme covered it with the ridicule of failure as well as the reproach of political violence. For this mistake, however, an indemnity is found in the subsequent proceedings of the Governor. Influenced, it is said, by a despatch from Downing-street in part, but we may imagine also from his own sense of public duty, he resolved to form an Upper House which should answer the constitutional object of its creation. answer the constitutional object of its creation. This he has done. In acrutinizing its com-This he has done. In scrutinizing its composition many are inclined to find fault, and some with reasonable cause. The number—27—is prebably too few to fully discharge the business of a Legislative Chamber. Additions, however, may be made without degrading the institution, and if in the same spirit as the original appointments—that is, without regard to political bias—they will be equally satisfactory to the intelligent public.

Some to whom such appointments have been offered have either refused or been ultimately

Some to whom such appointments have been offered have either refused or been ultimately rejected. The letters of Mr. Lamb show with rejected. The letters of Mr. Lamb show with what dignity and spirit he repudiated restraints which were offered to the freedom of his deliberation. We have reason, however, to believe that the document which accompanied the offer of a seat, and which was explanatory of the views of the Ministry, was uniformly repudiated, or so recognised as to relieve the members from its obligation. This document, which defined the stimulations of Ministry—that the Land Bill stipulations of Ministers-that the Land Bill ald pass, that the Legislative Council should be elective, and, finally, that Ministers should have a majority—was from its nature totally null and void. It was void from uncertainty in some of its most material parts, and from its invading the very principle of de-liberation, upon which legislators are sworn to give their votes. Some who were members of the former Council, and who have been of the former Council, and who have been omitted in the present, were among its most able members—men whose legal knowledge has men prevented legislation from being as impotent as it was ridiculous. The outery against lawyers has never long excluded them from legislation, because they really possess the kind of knowledge essential to its construction. No doubt a radical reformer picked up in the streets would be ready to draft a bill for any earthly purpose; but experience shows that he would only make work for the lawyers out of the Legislature, by depriving law making of the Legislature, by depriving law making of their assistance within it. In some instances the "swampers" have borne their disappointment with meekness. One gentleman, however, has appealed to the public, and accused the Ministry of deluding him with promises which they have not kept. It is understood that several have equal cause for complaint, but no one sympathises much with the sorrows of vanity. Had these gentlemen come forward to perform a real service, the country would have made their cause its own, but they only co-operated in a laughable blunder—a farce in which the biter was bitten. Their fate will be a warning to others, if, in-deed, the experience of the Governor had not made it improbable that he should ever tolerate a similar wrong.

When we speak of satisfaction with the nominations, of course we do not imply that the fag end of our violent politicians are satisfied fag end of our violent politicians are satisfied with anything that allows the smallest opposition to their opinions. They are especially scandalised that men who are known to be conservative in their sympathies should have been permitted by a "Liberal Ministry" to have any share in the Upper House. They would have gone down to the slums to ensure liberalism of the first water. They would have done so with a view of turning into mockery and contempt the principle of nomination itself. Of course this was no special business for a representative of was no special business for a representative of the Crown. Nomination is by no means abhorrent to the British Constitution, and is not likely to be regarded by her Majesty's Government as in itself an insult to humanity. The GOVERNOR—and so far as he was supported by his Ministry, the comnendation must extend to mendation must extend to them—was right in the view he took of his public duty. The Radicals are deluded under the idea that every appointment in the State should be conferred solely upon them; that, being the majority by universal suffrage, they ought to coerce the Crown into submission to all their antipathies, and shut up the Governor to a choice solely from their ranks. This may be partially reasonable where the object is to make an appointment with may be received and partially reasonable where the object is to make an appointment which may be revocable under another regime, but in forming, once and for good, a Legislative Council the GOVERNOR was specially bound to think of the character of the men—of their social position, and of their sympathy with the established and permanent interests of the community. It is not because to-day a majority—prehear to see the conduction of their sympathy with the established and permanent interests of the community. to-day a majority—perhaps a small one—follows a particular Ministry, that he ought to give effect to all their predilections and to crowd the Upper House with none but their friends. Had he done so he would have laid downs principle which would have been fatal to the institution itself, because the moment another Ministry entered in power they would have been entitled to such a creation as should give them the domination claimed by the Radicals in the moment of their strength, and so the numbers might have gone on in-creasing with all those ministerial fluctuations to which we are exposed. It must be remembered that parties in colonies are not livided on known and recognised principles of government, but that, while there is a party for anarchy, and perhaps another for despotism, the great bulk of the people differ only in the time and mode of carrying out principles generally acknowledged. The GOVERNOR, generally acknowledged. The GOVERNOR, therefore, has only acted in the spirit of the constitution in making such appointments as constitution in making such appointments as would not necessitate immediate and large additions, whatever probable change may transpire in the balance of parties. If this view be right, the GOVERNOR is amply vindicated, and the Ministers themselves can hardly be accused of inconsistency, excepting so far as to avoid its appearance committed themselves to a paper of ligible, and inconsistent with the very nature of the office to which the nominations refer. It will be seen how far the country, when the matter is fairly put before it, concurs in this view. The Land Bill will doubtless pass without much change, and without delay. When this is effected, the great issue will probably be this is elected, the great issue will probably be submitted to the electors—whether men of intelligence and property shall rule, or whether the lowest strata of democracy shall shake all confidence and overcast the future with vacillation and doubt. We imagine that having talked about theories of governhaving talked about theories of govern-ment five years, the majority of the people will look to men who are competent to administration and without much regard to political creeds which are hourly losing their significance. From the obvious change in the current of public feeling, we have reason to hope that sound views will sufficiently prevail to enable capital once more to has so seriously interrupted its advancement Although we can see no reason to confirm the glowing descriptions which are found in certain specches, of the prosperity of the country, we specches, of the prosperity of the country, we are nevertheless of opinion that things are better than they were. The slow but perhaps sure, amelioration of financial difficulties will restore once more healthy action to public industry. The fact is that the resources of the Australian colonies are so immense, compared with the population, that while misgovernment or extravagance or misfortune will occasion times of great personal trial and class suffering, there is a restorative process which is never inactive. is a restorative process which is never inactive. In the worst of times our wool is growing, our cattle increasing, our gold being col-lected, our shipping more or less in activity. The wealth of the Australian colonies is enormous, but that very wealth creates great tempt-ations to its misapplication, and difficulties arising from its constantly fluctuating distri-

improvements of the colony the lack of which

Turning, from party politics to a social question of growing importance, we regret that our papers will coavey accounts of the miser-able proceedings at Lambing Fiat. This goldfield, in the centre of a country but very sparsely populated, is accessible across the border from the gold mines of Melbourne. We fear that the riff-raff of all the colonies are collected there. The account of their treatment of the Chinese will be found in another column. We have not been able to discern the slightest provocation. It is not even alleged that the Chinese have committed any encroachment or Chinese have committed any encroachment or injury, or, indeed, that they have done anything modities, is best for the community. which, irrespective of their colour, their language, and their strange apparel, could arouse the enmity of a trueborn Englishman. In fact, we understand that, excepting a large sprinkling of thieves from the old penal estabishments, the active parties in these disturbances are chiefly foreigners.

We are not disposed now to enter into the causes which have permitted impunity to a succession of rioters, until their last outrages have rendered toleration impossible. It is satisfactory to know that the Government is now proceeding with vigour. The highest military officer in the colony will have charge of the forces sent to the disturbed district, and it is announced that martial law will be estabis announced that martial law will be estab-lished so soon as authority arrives from General Pratt. It is only by prompt and decisive action that a riot, in which there are hundreds of armed men of the most despe-rate character, can be possibly suppressed. If they are permitted impunity for a few days or weeks the towns and villages within their reach will be no longer safe—to say nothing of the disgrace attached to a country where the law is systematically subverted, and where a quiet people, who are here under the authority of our own laws and treaties, are cruelly injured and persecuted. What may be proper hereafter to prevent a recurrence of these evils will be a consideration for Government and the Legislature. From the prevailing opinion, restriction of some kind may be expected, but it can hardly be doubted that, on reflection, the Legislature will refuse its assent to any measure inconsistent with its duties as part of the British Empire, professing the doctrines of Christian equity. Whether the Chinese should be permitted to come to this country, or upon what terms, must be, however, settled by law, and not by the caprice of individuals. We believe that among all who rank with civilised beings, there is only one judgment on the conduct of those men who have so disgraced this country and injured their fellow but also from the instinct of self preservation. To allow these dis-orders would be to create a precedent which would not stop at the tents of the China-men or at the offices of Government on the spot, but which would soon attack society in its st vital interest. Although in the collision between the constabulary and the rioters life has been lost and many wounded, no one can mark the particulars without admiring the great forbearance which the police displayed, as well as the courage when action became imperative. From Mr. Zoucu this might have been expected. The colonists are gratified, however, to see that the son of the Inspector of Police— Captain M'LERIE—has shewn, under these trying circumstances a discretion and course worthy of his father and the trust confided in him by the Government. He is an honour to him by the Government. He is an nonour to his Australian country, since the natives of New South Wales, whenever they are required to do so, will prove how little sym-pathy they have with the turbulent people who, after having resided six months in their country, think themselves entitled to take up erms against its Government.

In the various explanations given of the present depressed state of trade, and the schemes pro pounded for restoring prosperity, it is easy to race the influence of the limited view of affairs caused by the subdivision of occupations. All classes of course hang together more or less, and are affected by each other. But immediately, and in the first instance, their interests are not apparently identical, and what suits one does not suit the other. The producer and the consumer do not look at prices in quite the same light; the importer and the local manu-facturer are often at loggerheads; the buyer likes a full market, and the seller likes a scarce one. The mercantile classes like to have in their own hands the regulation of imports: they complain of outsiders and interlopers, and small retailers setting up as wholesale importers and making use of bank capital to supplement their own impecuniosity, and they call it good times when shipments fall off, and then heavy stocks can be moved off at a price that leaves a fair margin of profit. The consumers, heart-lessly indifferent to the woes of importers, have no objection to forced auction sales, as they thereby get articles at prime cost, or a little over.
and they do not appreciate that improvement in trade which deprives them of their chances of great bargains, and compels them to fifty per cent. advance on commodities that happen to have been short shipped. Market gardeners and the proprietors of orchards complain loudly of the reduced price of all horticultural produce. After giving a high price for land, and paying dearly for labour to clear, trench, fence, and plant—as many of them have done during the past ten years—it is discouraging to find that the prices now obtainable yield no return commensurate with the capital invested. But consumers like to find that fruit and vegetables are getting reasonably cheap. Squatters are not by any means celighted at having to sell fat cattle for the price they gave for the store stock, but they get no compassion from the public, who have a decided preference for cheap over dear meat. Those who have houses to let, or building allotments to sell, groan over the decline in rents and the absence of any demand for fresh houses, but those who have been paying a large slice of their income for a tenen miserably inconvenient, rather like the novel sensation of being able at last to pick and choose a house out of several to let; and of being able to reduce the charge for rent to a reasonable fraction of the annual domestic outlay.

The price of land is taken by many as a gauge of the current prosperity, and a dull market is synonymous with bad times. And it is a favourite theory with many who have allotments to sell which they cannot get quit of, that the banks are the cause of all their sorrows, through the practice of allowing interest on deposits. If investors could not get five per cent. for their money from the banks, it is thought that they would be found to do something with it, and some of it would be laid out in land, which would improve the market for that commodity. This is a very the market for that commodity. This is a very convenient doctrine for those who wish to sell, but it is hard to see in what way it would benefit the colony if the banks were to cease to give the colony if the banks were to cease to give interest. The prosperity of the colony depends upon the profitableness of colonial industry, and that is not affected by the fact of the banks giving interest. If it were a better speculation to buy land than to take a quiet five per cent., there would be pienty of buyers. If buyers are still shy, it is because the price of land is still unnaturally high, or because they think so. The land-sellers must go the price of land is still unnaturally high, or be-cause they think so. The land-sellers must go further a-field than the banks to find the real cause or causes of the dulness they complain of. Free trade in money, as in all other combanks act as they think m terest, and so do those who trust them with meney. To prevent the one from borrowing or the other from lending, simply to force money into different channels, could not but be im-

The fall in the price of land is partly a return to a natural price. The gold mania led to unnatural speculation. When houses were scarce and crowded, and fresh shiploads of emigrants were constantly being poured out on the quays, rents rose, houses fetched high prices, and allotments on which could be built rose proportionately. But the demand has now ceased, or very nearly so. Those who are investing with a view to get interest for their money ask what income is derivable. To them a building allotment is valuable in prothem a building allotment is valuable in propertion to the ground rent it would yield on a long lease, or to the rent that could be got for a house built upon it at a given outlay of capital. And if the need of fresh houses is small, and the cost of building is still disproportionate to the rate of rental, allotments do not wear an attractive aspect to the invester. So with suburban farms, dairy farms, gardens, and orchards. The imaginary value placed upon them during the gold mania has disappeared. They are worth what they will yield in the shape of revenue. What will they let for, or what surplus will they yield to the working proprietor, after deducting all the costs of tillage? The profits on working ordinary land are not so brilliant now as to tempt buyers to give the heavy prices that working ordinary land are not so brilliant now as to tempt buyers to give the heavy prices that have been current in years past. Lands of exceptional fertility, or in very advantageous position, will still command good prices, as was sufficiently illustrated by a recent sale.

There is no doubt, however, but that the dulness of the land market, so much complained that these when with the sell or those country, or upon what terms, must be, however, settled by law, and not by the caprice of individuals. We believe that among all who rank with civilised beings, there is only one judgment on the conduct of those men who have so disgraced this country and injured their fellow men.

The Government appears to be disposed to act with vigour now that the true nature of the insurrection is disclosed, and it will be supported not only from a sense of

exception of some leaseholds in the unsettled districts, the whole area of the colony is to be thrown into the market at oace, and the price virtually reduced. Of course, this affects the value of land already held. Every freeholder, small or great, auffers from so violent a change in public policy. The artizan who has only a little cottage allotment, the market gardener, the small farmer, and the country gentleman, alike find the value of their real estate depreciated. Nor can any one at present venture to state what will be the value of land when the new Act comes into operation. If the picked land of the colony is to be had for five shillings an acre, what is the value of inferior lands? No one can pretend to foresee how the Act will work. Will there be an emigration from the towns to rural retreats? exception of some leastholds in the unsettled emigration from the towns to rural retreats? emigration from the towns to rural retreats? Will the working population shift to any extent from its present haunts to new locations: and if so will the change be sudden or very gradual? Who will venture to say? We believe that the change will be less than is generally anticipated, but the uncertainty necessarily paralyses speculation in land. And while this uncerspeculation in land. And while this uncer-tainty prevails capitalists naturally prefer to content themselves with a safe five content themselves with a saie nice per cent, from the banks to making purchases of real estate, which may, perhaps, turn out unprofit-able and unsaleable. When the action of the new law has become determined, and its effect new law has become determined, and its effect on the value of existing freeholds has become-visible; when it is seen how the distribution of population is effected by it, and what changes, if any, it produces on the profitableness of agricultural and pastoral operations, then there will be less tendency to hoard money, and it will be more freely invested in real estate.

The Government have been very liberal in their arrangement in suspending two commissioners for act stopping the riot that occurred on the 30th ultime.
It is to be hoped by this time they better understand these fields, and see that the commissioners acted with great discretion. If the Government will be advised at all, let them send commissioners enough to attend to the dispute that they will certainly be called upon to settle on the at the risk of great displeasure of many on Lambiag Fiat. The Chinese must be reinstated at all costs, and the law upheld, and then any Legislative enactment can be enforced. At present they are entitled, holding [their miner's right as they do, to the same protection as others. If the (rovernment do not take these steps the Chinese question will be a source of trouble and expense to the country for many months to come. A Public Service Rewarded.—Writing from Gundagai on the 14th instant, a correspondent, adverting to the capture of "Jack-in-the-Boots," the notorious bushranger whose deprodations in the Southern districts had raised him to the bad eminance of a villain of the first class, states that his captors came upon him a short time back, at a shasty on the Level's Road. They were three in namber, and this names, Israel Hargraves, John Holloway, and Christopher Creighton, all of them bullock-drivers. In appears that "Jack-in-the-Boots" had, the day before his apprehension, robbed and beaten a man named George Finney, at this shanty; and was swelling it about the place in an elaborate toilet, including buckakin gloves, when the three mapjut named rushed on him, and having succeeded in throwing him, bound him hand and foot, hard and fast, with their silk sahes. Holley was armed at the time. He was soon taken into Gundagai, whee the clanking of his leg irons may now be heard every day as he strides up and down the Gundagai, whee the clanking of his leg irons may now the heard every day as he strides up and down the Gundagai, whee the clanking of his leg irons may now be heard every day as he strides up and down the Gundagai, whee the clanking of his leg irons may now the heard every day as he strides up and down the Gundagai, whee the clanking of his leg irons may now the heard every day as he strides up and down the Gundagai, when the Gundagai, heard the captor of the ruffan. Such an acknowledgment of their services will be more than a compensation for the odium setually thrown on these public benefactors by too many of the inhabitants of the district, when antecedents and fellow feeling as clearly lead then to a sympathy with criminals. It must be sid, however, that all the respectable residents in these districts accord the highest praise to Molloy's captors, and would certainly have ruised a sum of money to abow the apprecia ion in which this service is held, had not the Guevarmerat, with truly commenda

In the case of Cameron v. Hay, the Court has decided that a new trial must be granted, because of certain evidence having been improperly received.
This decision shows that it will be well in all future cases that evidence, not shoultely essential, which is objected to, be not presend on a jury, unless its admissibility be too Year for doubt; and, on the other hand, that evidence not absolutely fatal in its character be not objected to, except on the most unanswersbie grounds; remembering, on both sides, that a mistake in admitting or rejecting the proposed teatimony will inevitably cost the hitigant all the

Another case recently before this Court has excited a good deal of attention. This was a suit by certain residents at "Big Coogee," to stay the creation of St. June's church, at a place now known as Randwick, from funds left by the late Frederick Jones for the erection of "an Bjacopalian church at Big Coogee, for the accommodation of the members of the Church of England residing in that locality." The reply was that Randwick was a modern name for the present site of the church, and that the bequest was most substantially compiled with in erecting it there. The principal defendants were executors under Mr. Jones will, but the trustees of the church with a termination the averment of their being in collusion with the executors to get the church built at Randwick. The Attorney-General was also made a party upon the ground of his not having filed an information against the executors when applied to for that purpose. The application for an injunction has been diamissed, upon the ground that the applicants have not stated themselves to be members of this Church of England, and that only members of this Church resident at Big Coogee are interested. The main question, as to conformity of this site with the wishes of the testator, remains still to be fought out.

Friday, 28th June to 5th July.

That which all sensible men predicted has come to pass. The "respectable" and orderly gentry of Lambing Flat, no longer restrained by the presence of a military force, have again "rolled up" some 3000 etrong, and attacked the Chinese. This time they have not only driven the helpless and harmless Asiatics right away from the gold-field, but have treated them with greater brutality than ever. Many are dangerously hurt, some are missing. But the store strong, and attacked the Chinese. This time they have not only driven the helptess and harmless Asistics right away from the gold-field, but have treated them with greater brutality than ever. Many are dangerously hurt, some are missine. But the crowning act of ferocity was that, after the Chinese had fled to a considerable distance before their tormentors, a body of the latter followed them on horse-back, rounded them up like cattle, and having plundered them of all the clothing and provisions which they had managed to save, made bonnres of this plunder—all that had been left behind at the Chinese diggings had been previously destroyed. Thus were these unoffending people thrust forth wholly destitute. They received some food and shelter at a place (Roberts') some distance from the diggings. But it requires strong moral courage to aid Chinese in any way, for the white-skinned savages of Burnangeong threaten vengeance against all who do so. The Government has directed that the fugitive Chinese be supplied with food at the public expense, but, as before, the perpetrators of this brutal outrage are likely to escape scatheless. The Government has, indeed, directed that as strong a force of police as is available shell be concentracted on this spot, and that the ringleaders shall be apprehended at all hazards with a view to their being brought to trail at Yass. But no amount of force which can be thus concentrated will suffice, and it is doubtful whether, even if some of the rufflans were taken, it would be possible to procure a conviction. Many of the leaders in this riot have since left the district, but others remain and openly defy the authorities. Robberies and ruffisnism of every kind are said to prevail in this unhappy locality. A silver bugle was presented, on Saturday last, to the Penrith Volunteer Riffee by the ladies of that district, Mr. Druitt acting as spokesman for the ladies and Captain Riley responding on behalf of his Company. This ceremony, as well as the ball and other festivities which acc

WAR IN NEW ZEALAND.

POSTSCRIPT to our summary of New Zealand new A POSTSCELET to OUT SUMMARY OF New Zealand news gave not merely confirmation to the views previously expressed, but also placed before the English public the proclamation of his Excellency Governor Gore Brown, expressly addressed to the chiefs and people at Ngaruswahia, who had at that time been sum-moned to assemble in public maeting (Runanga) 40 consider the present state of affairs.

None reading that proclamation but will declare that the terms therein offered are liberal in the extreme, the more so when it is remembered that they are terms.

the more so when it is remembered that they are terms offered to rebels, recently in arms sgainst the Queen's offered to rebels, recently in arms sgainst the Queen's supremscy, and who in fact have as yet made no mende for their wrong doing. Writer after writer has declared upon their individual knowledge of different tribes, and from the general tone and temper pervading them, that these terms would not be accepted, but that they would uphold their king, maintain their flag, insist upon making and administering their own laws, refuse to give up Waitara, and altogether decline to restore the plunder taken at Taranaki, or to make compensation for losses sustained by their means during the Taranaki affair.

Since then the great rusangu (meeting) has been held, and the opinions then given seem to be entirely borne out by the course of procedure then adopted.

to Taranaki, and concluded a speech, which was throughout a justification of the Governor.

"Epiha said, in answer to a question, that ministers who conducted themselves properly would not be molessed.

"At the evening meeting, William Barton urged the importance of moderation, counsel, and time. The Rev. A. Reid slao spoke with earnestness and force. To what, he asked, is the present unanimity of the tribes owing? He was answered, 'To the Rongo Pai.' Then, he urged, if the Gospel has made tribes one who were formerly divided, why "should the Macries now seek to separate themselves from the Pakehs who had brought this Gospel. The reverend gentleman then pointed out the discourtesy and even wickedness of their having refused to read the Governor's letter, and showed that that letter renewed the guarantee of security for their lands, and offered them the exportanity of self-government, under proper laws.

"Puha remised that God commanded the Israel."

"Epiha replied that God commanded the Israelites to choose a kirg from amongst their own brethren, and Aporo recounted the evils which had led to the setting up of the Maeri king. The meeting sat late into might, and on the following day the Hui the setting up of the Maeri king. The meeting sat late into mght, and on the following day the Hui dispersed."

The speech of Wi Thompson, above referred to, in answer to the Governor's proclamation, is given in extense in the same journal, and seldom has it been our let to witness a more impertinent production. Full of the coarsest abuse of the Governor, of the most shallow but at the same time subtle reasoning, and of a wenton parade of Scripture love, it opens out precisely the line of argument which a writer in the Southern Cress had previously declared to be that which the Maories would adopt, but which he also pointed out, was evidently not a Maori idea, since "it smacked of a document called Renata, and of a locality called Te Aute:" shewing that in the impending atruggle New Zealand would have to expect "open savage warfare, backed up by concealed Luropean influence." But after all the long and fiery speeches in the meeting, their latter to the Governor, in reply to his proclamation, pleads only for delay and for time, with a kind of half protest against the road making upon which the military are now engaged. The document is not unworthy of perusal, as it shows distinctly the wily character of the foe with whom we have to deal:—

Since then the great runanga (meeting) has been held, and the opinions then given seem to be entirely boine out by the course of procedure then adopted. The great body of the natives arrived at Ngaruawahis on Monday, the 6th, and the following day was given up to tengi (mourning) for Weitni, who fell at Mahoettair, The grand bezore (talk) did not take place until the next day (Wednesday); and the proceedings of that and the aucceeding day sure thus given in the New Zealander of the 19th:—

"The Governor's declaration was produced, and certain passages, apparently marked beforehand, were read. The remaining portion was, with the concurrence of the meeting, left unread. On the aide of the extreme Kingties many fiercely declared that they had 'stopped their ears' to that letter, whilst on the other fide also seaved expressed their contempt for the 'mpeps.' A solitary individual, more reasonable than the rest, who proposed that the document should be considered, was speedily put down.

"On Thursday the proceedings opened with singing and prayer. Insent to do it. Good international Rahibition for 1862. Every man, of course, is interested in the good fame of the country with which his fortances are identified. It is perfectly true that we look very small upon the same of the world, and smaller still when we compare our statistics with the population, wealth, and commerce of European and American States. Yet we have our friends who will seek out the nook in the great Plake of Industry to find that we are not altogether an idle, or ignorant, or unentspring people. Besides these who will be attracted from kindred sympathy to inspect the productions of this country, or whose commercial interest may induce them to wish well to our prosperity, the men of science as well as the nen of political forecast will look into the specimens of our natural wealth to base their calculations of the future. They will see, not without lively satisfaction, that there is scarcely a gift that nature bestows upon the countries most favoured that she has not lavished upon this colony. If nature has forgotten us in the distribution of animal life, we have a country which farours its development, and commerce is aunually importing to these shores the most valuable productions of the old world. Thus, all that can be required to ensure the opulence of a country either lies at our feet, or is within the reach of our hands. The Commissioners appointed to prepare for the London Exhibition are men well qualified for the task, and have entered upon it with great spirit. They intend to give prizes for a great variety of produce —-Skins, feathers, oils, the produce of the dairy and the hive, all kinds of cersuls, grasses, and meat,—indeed everything that enters into consumption for whatever purposes, and which can be regarded as a specimen their quotas to this most important collection. These, together with specimens to be furnished by Mr. Keene (Inspector of Coal-fields), will present this great feature fully to the public of England in all its interesting varieties. We do not know that any department will be likely so greatly to interest as the mineral capabilities of the colonies. Provision is also made for a very ample specimen of colonial wools. The prize offered by Mr. Mort for the best specimens will of course stimulate competition in this direction: but there are many who, without any such impulse, will be most happy to show the quality of our fleece. Measrs. Lloyd, of the Namoi River; Mr. Nichloson, of little Plains; and Mr. Riley, of Tenterfield, have signified their intention to add to this class of contributions. Sugar and cotton are also promised. Our manufactures, of course, cannot be very numerous, but there will be sent specimens of colonial tweed from Mr. Campbell, of Barker's Mills, and Capain Russell, of Ravensfield. Our wood will be set off. the fine cabinet work of Measrs. Hill and Mr. Lonshan; Mr. Milgrave is to display its adaptation for the art of the turner. THE REVENUE.

The official statement of our colonial income for the quarter ended 30th June, 1861, compared with preceding periods, exhibits the subjoined results.

The total receipts, including revenue proper and all other moneys paid into the Treasury,

Of these twelve quarters the first six include the revenue of the Moreton Bay District, erected into a separate colony in December, 1859. The fair comparison of quarter with quarter should, therefore, start with the first three months of 1860. We thus find that the present year has exceeded the past by £29,682 in its first quarter, and by £6,989 in its second: or by £36,671 in the first six months.

The next table specifies the chief heads of

The comparative results for the year are more favourable than might have been expected, considering that one-half of the preceding year included the Queensland revenue. Customs, gold, the Post Office, railways, and electric telegraphs, all yielded more in the four quarters terminating on the 30th June, 1861, than in the four corresponding quarters of 1860.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.—When the 48th Regiment of Infantry was in this colony, amongst those who got their discharge and settled here was Mr. Thomas Steele. This veteran was in many of the prominent actions during the Peninsula war, and on his discharge from his regiment received a regimental medal, A few years ago he received the medal, known as the Duke of Richmond's Medal, the bars upon which notify that Mr. Steele was present at Toulouse, Orthes, Nive, Nivelle, Pyrenees, Vitoria, Salamanca, Badajos, Ciudad Rodrigo, and Talavera. At the dreadful alaughter at the siege of Badajoz he was one of the few that survived, and though in the thickest of the engagement, was not even wounded. After Mr. Steele left the Army, he was a miller at Miller's Point, but for the last thirty years resided at Newtown. For the last few months he was feeble, and his intellect gave way, and he expired on Sunday, the 23rd instant, at the patriarchal age of 88 years.

DESIGES TOUR THE HOUSES OF PARLIAMENT.—We have noticed is previous summarise the twenty-one designs sent in competition for the premiums of 25000 and £300 for the new houses of parliament and Government buildings which it has been proposed to erect at the entrance of the Domain, in Macquarie-street. After having been exhibited for about two months, at the School of Arts, the designs were examined by the commission appointed for that purpose. Out of the twenty-one designs, six were set aside on account of their superior meetit, and have been referred to the colonial architect to report upon the suitability of the plans. His report has not yot been sent in, but upon its receipt the commissioners will probably at once announce the successful competitors.

VISIT OF SIR JOHN YOUNG TO THE HUNTER RIVER DISTRICT.

HIST OF SIR JOHN YOUNG TO THE HUNTER RIVER RIVER DISTRICT.

His Excellency the Governor in-Chief and Latv Young started from Sydney on Tuesday moraing, the 25th June, upon a visit to the Hunter River district, in response to an invitation from the residents as the principal places in that district. The immediate ocrasion of his Excellency's visit was the opening of an Exhibition at the West Maitland School of Arts; and the opportunity was taken to request Ladv Young to inresent the regimental colours to the West Maitland Volunteer Rifle Company. His Excellency was accompanied by Lord John Taylour (aide-de-camp) and Mr. F. F. Turville (private secretary), and also by the Colonial Secretary, the Colonial Treesurer, Colonia Kempt and Captain Laver, 12th Regiment, and Captain Pitt, R.A. Tao Hunter River New Steam Navigation Company's fine steamer City of New Castle was handsomely placed by the directors at the disposal of the vice-regal party for their conveyance to and from the district.

veyance to and from the district.

Newcastle.

Upon the steamer's arrival at Newcastle, all the the ships in the harbour displayed their bunting, and a large number of persons was assembled on the wherf. The Newcastle Rife Company, numbering about forty, were drawn up in line; and the Volunteer Artillery fired a salute of seventeen guns as the steamer came alongside. Immediately upon landing his Excellency was conducted to the court-house, where the Mayor of Newcastle read an address to the the Governor on behalf of the citizens of Newcastle, congratulating him on his safe arrival in the colony, and expressing confidence that, under his administration, every interest of the colony would rapidly progress. His Excellency in answer to the address, dwelt upon the extensive mineral resources of the district as contributing largely to the material wealth and expanding the commerce of the Australian colonies. An address was also read by the Mayor from the Municipality of Newcastle, to which His Excellency made an extempore reply.

The Mayor then invited his Excellency and suite to a luncheon, which was accepted; and the party proceeded to Rouse's Hotel, where a splendid luncheon was served. About sixty people were present; the Mayor of Newcastle presided. After the usual loyal toasts, his Excellency's health was drunk and responded to in a neat speech, and other toasts appropriate to the occasion followed. His Excellency then accompanied the Mayor and other gentlemen in a walk round the city, expressing much interest at the marks of progress everywhere visible. Having done this, the party proceeded to Maitland by a special train at a quarter past four o'clock.

WEST MAITLAND NEWCASTLE.

At both the East and West Maitland railway station platforms, the volunteers were drawn up awaiting the Governor's arrival; at West Maitland, the Volunteers followed his Excellency to the Northumberland Hotel and formed a guard of honour during his Excellency's visit to the town. A great number of the houses were decorated with evergreens and triumphal arches, and various other demonstrations of welcome were afforded.

On the morning after his arrival, the Governor received a deputation from the residents in West Maitland, who presented an address, which was read by Mr. Bourn Russell, to which his Excellency made an appropriate reply.

an, bourn Kussell, to which his Excellency made an appropriate reply.

The Exhibition at the School of Arts which it was the immediate object of his Excellency's visit to the district to open, was an extremely creditable one considering the difficulties which must have attended the immediate object of his Excellency's visit to the district to open, was an extremely creditable one considering the difficulties which must have attended its getting up. The large hall, which would seat six or seven hundred people, and also the small rooms at the back, were well filled with objects; these were displayed upon tables along the centre, and round the sides of the hall, the walls being completely covered with pictures. The general effect, from the number of articles as well as from their beauty and other features of interest, was very imposing. Like the recent Exhibition in Sydney, that at Maitland embraced a wide variety of objects—works of act, models, curiosities, machinery, and articles of colonial produce and manufacture. In objects of the latter class, the provincial Exhibition was comparatively better supplied than was the metropolitan. There were some very fine samples of wool, and also of cereals; while a very valuable collection of minerals, illustrating the geological character of the district, was exhibited by Mr. Keene. Specimens of the manufactures of the district were shown in aaddlery and other leather work, in wince, in cabinet—ware, in bird-stuffing, and even in millinery. A large portion of the Exhibition was devoted exclusively to articles of colonial produce or manufacture, and these indicated in a very direct manner the resources and the industry of the district. With respect to works of srt. it could hardly be expected that there would be in Maitland a very large or a very choice collection of such works, and these were but poorly represented.

The ceremony of opening the Exhibition was commenced by the Rev. J. M. Thackeray, the President, reading an address to the Governor presenting a very encouraging report of the condition and prospects of the lands of the condition and prospects of the lands of the produced out very forcibly the advantages to be derived from such combinations.

Shortly after leaving the School of Arts, his Excellency half a reception when about twenty

DINNER TO SIR JOHN YOUNG AT WEST MAITLAND.

In the evening his Excellency was entertained by the inhabitants of West Maitland at a public dinner, at Eckford's Hotel. About a hundred and twenty gentlemen assembled to pay this mark of respect to the representative of royalty. The chair was occupied by Mr. Bourn Russell, M.L.C., and the vice-chair by Mr. James Dickson, M.L.A. Besides his Excellency and suite there were present Mr. Cowper, Mr. Weekes, Colonel Kempt, Captain Lavers, Captain Pitt—the company including many of the oldest and most influential residents in the district. The presence at the dinner of Lady Young and two daughters of Mr. Cowper was a novelty in such entertainments, but was much appreciated by the company as an unmistakeakle proof of her ladyship's shallity and social disposition.

The convivial proceedings were commenced by the Chairman proposing the usual loyal toasts—"The Queen," and "The Prince Consort, the Prince of Wales, and the rest of the Royal Family," both of which toasts were very enthusiastically drunk.

The Chairman then rose, and proposed the toast of DINNER TO SIR JOHN YOUNG AT WEST MAITLAND.

The Chairman then rose, and proposed the toast of the evening in a short but complimentary speech. The toast was received amidst loud and continued demonstrations of enthusiasm, upon the subsidence of match.

Cheen, and laughter). Only very latery, an intelligent friend of mine wrote to me me breight friend of mine wrote to me breight friend of the m The toast was received amidst loud and continued demonstrations of enthusiasm, upon the subsidence of which,

His Excellency responded as follows:—Mr. Bourn Russell and gentlemen, I am exceedingly obliged to you for the applause with which you have received the toast that the chairman has just given. He was pleased to refer to my long experience. That experience, such as it is, is entirely at your service. (Cheers.) He was also pleased to speak of the difficulties which I had to encounter in the Government of the Ionian Islands. The main part of those difficulties was, that I was sorry to see that the people of those islands did not make the most of the great advantages with which Nature had endowed them (cheers); and that, secondly, the possession, or rather the protectorate of those islands (for though they are supposed to be independent, they are under the protection of Engiand) was of little advantage to England, and under the institutions with which they were endowed of very little await to them—I therefore recommended that we should get rid of them. I believe that that was the main difficulty with which I had to contend, and I believe that there are few of the leading statemen of England who do not concur in that opinion, and do not endorse the propriety of the advice I gave. (Cheers.) Now, the demonstrations of welcame and hospitality which have been showered upon me, in my capacity as the representative of royalty, show your loyalty to the Crown, and your attachment to England. (Loud cheers.) They put beyond a doubt how fondly you cling to the reminiscences of the old country, and how much you value the institutions which makes that country what it is. It is well that that should be so; and happy was the dye of England when her statesmen is these latter times saw the propriety of reverting to the ancient colonial maxims of England—to those ancient maxims which inculcated that every Englishman when he left his native aborres to better his fortune, if he could do so by locating himself on strange lands hi

On Friday morning, the Governor and party took their departure from West Maitland and were cheered by the townspeople who again turned out in considerable numbers to show their respect to his Excellency on leaving. At East Maitland, too, a number of the inhabitants cheered the Governor as he passed, having erected two handsome triumphal arches—one upon the bridge at Wallis' Creek, and the other across the road opnosite Douelsas and Cooper's atore. Approthe bridge at Wallia' Creek, and the other across the road opposite Douglass and Cooper's store. Appropriate preparations had also been made at Morpeth in honour of Sir John Young. A very beautiful triumphal arch had been thrown across the road near the Commercial Bank, in front of which the Maitland and Morpeth Volunteer Company, accompanied by their band, were drawn up as a guard of honour to await his Excellency's arrival. Soon after ten o'clock, the vice-regal party drove into the town, followed by a long cortege of carriages, in which were the Bishop of Newcastle, and some of the oldest and most influential residents in the district. Upon reaching the triumphal arch—a large crowd of the townspeople having assembled—the procession halted, and Sir John Young having alighted, Mr. Close, sen., read an addrass to the Governor, to which his Excellency made a courteous reply.

address to the Governor, to which his Excellency made a courteous reply.

The entrance to the H. R. N. S. N. Company's wharf presented a very gay appearance. An extremely elegant triple arch had been formed of evert greens, relieved with lemons and oranges, with a wrrath ornamented with camellias, enclosing the the letters V.R. The company's buildings were also gaily decorated with flags. The guard of honour having preceded the cortege, were drawn up on the wharf. A salute of seventeen guns was fired from the City of Newcastle as his Excellency came on board. Loud volleys of cheers from the townspeople assembled on the wharf greeted his Excellency as the steamer took her departure.

RAYMOND TERRACE.

At Raymond Terrace a triumphal arch had been exceted on the wharf, unpretentious in size or design, but pleasingly sugastive of the productiveness of the district in its laden branches of oranges and beautiful evergreems. A considerable number of persons were collicated upon the wharf. The Governor, preceded by by his guard of honour, having stepped on the wharf, Ms. Archibald Windeyer, J.F., read an address which he Excellency suitably acknowledged.

After a short conversation with Mr. Windeyer, in which he manifested his interest in the welfare of the district, his Excellency returned to the steamer, which thereupon proceeded on her course, stopping for a few moments when alongside of the steam-dredge, now engaged in clearing what were for many years decaded by the larger craft navigating the Hunter—the Raymond Terrace Flats—but now almost entirely removed. The men employed upon the dredge demonstrated their respect for the Governor by hearty chering, which appeared to be appreciated by his Excellency. The ateamer proceeded at half-speed while passing Tomago Collierty, where an array of flags met his Excellency's view; and also on passing Hexham, where vessels coaling at the wharf bore evidences of the mineral wealth of the district.

The works upon Sir Morton Peto and Co.'s three extensions are reparted to be proceeding with greater vigour since the disputes with the department have been settled, and there can be little doubt that they will now be energetically pushed on. Under the new agreement the contractors can easily complete the lines within the specified time; but even, as it is very possible they may, should they anticipate the stipulated dates, little credit can be taken by an eminent railway firm for completing fifty-five miles of railway in something less than three years and three-quarters. Some of the heavy works on the Northern extensions are very far advanced. The visduct ever Black Creek, which is above three hundred feet in length, and has seven openings of forty feet, and two of sixteen feet, is all but finished, and will be ready in a tew days for conveying the earth from the cutting to the embankment. The line as far as Black Creek is so far finished as to render its completion by the end of this year not only practicable, but probable. The Western extension to Pennith is also expected to be ready for opening about the line to Menangie, which will be completed in four or five months, will be serviceable in the conveyance of the iron work for the Menangie viaduct, which was at our last dates in process of manufacture at Sir M. Peto and Co.'s Works, at Birkenhead, and has probably been shipped before this. Considerable progress has been made with the excavations for the stone piers, which are to be ready for fining the fron work on its arrival. Between eleven and twelve hundred men are employed upon Sir M. Peto and Co.'s three extensions.

In addition to the construction of new extensions, works of considerable meaning the search of the search o

At Reprosent took her departure was too the production of the very research. A considerable number of persons were could read upon the whalf. The Governor, preceded by the Revenue of the production of the produc altogether about a hundred and thirty of the former and six hundred of the latter. The piles average from twenty to thirty feet in length; they are driven at a batter of one in five, and filled in with rubble, as so to present the greatest resistance to the water. This portion of the work is in a forward state, and will be finished in about a week. The impetuosity and volume of water to which this portion of the line has been subjected during the several recent floods, has required that the new works should be very substratial in their character; and there can be no doubt that the vinduct and the approaching embankments will withstand any future visitation, however violent or prolonged. The solidity of the columns obtained by having double bearing piles in addition to the abundance of braces and walings, renders this vindues the strongest structure yet erected on our rail eap works.

Another viaduct across the same creek nearer Campbelltown, similar in construction to that just described, but of greater length, was contracted for a year ago by Mr. Hudson. The time for its construction was up in April last, but it will be several weeks before it can be brought into use. A temporary bridge on a deviation from the line is at present carrying the traffic.

The portion of the Campbelltown line runging through Davis Flat, about three miles from Campbelltown, has, during each of the recent heavy floods, been much injured by the scour of the water over the rails, causing a stoppage to the traffic. A number of flood openings, constructed of stone piers about two feet wide, were placed at frequent intervals, but they failed in after img the exquired outlet. Although a repetition of the late extraordinary floods is not anticipated, it is considered desirable to put the railway in such a condition that, should they recur, they should not again have the effect of destroping the works, and of interrupting the traffic. The mere raising of the embankment would be infectual for the protection of the line without sufficient wate wide to afford a free passage for the water on any occasion of flood.

Upon the Great Northern Railway some new structures will have to be put up, owing to the indicated the second of the works were originally performed. The visiduct across frombark Greet rests upon piles, which have been attacked by the cobra, and it has had to be constantly strengthened by driving fresh piles. A new visiduct is about to be treeted, the piles for which will be driven in ethar bank, the span of fifty feet to be strengthened by a laminated arch.

The construction of a tramway along Pitt-street to connect the terminus at Redfern with the Circular Quay, having been affirmed by the Legislature last session, orders were sent to England for the most improved description of rails and carriages for carrying that measure into effect. Advices have been received this week stating that the rails for a length of a mile and three quarters and two carriages, like those adopted on the English street railways by Mr. Tria, had been shipped in the Marcianus, from Liverpool. This vessel having sailed in April is now daily expected, and it is, therefore, likely that the experiment of street railways, so long talked about, will be very shortly tried in Sydney.

Most of the lagge buildings in progress in the metropolis are being erected either for public companies or for benevolent institutions. The downward tendency of rentals operates to deter capitalists from embarking largely in building speculations. Some of the more central sites, which were purchased a few years ago at prices that they would not now command, are being occupied by houses of a superior class, but they appear likely when finished to remain for some time detached, and to give the streets as unfinished appearance. This defect, which is every month becoming less observable, is one of the most obvious features of the city presented to new arrivals, and is the more striking because of the palatial style of some of our public structures.

month becoming less observable, is one of the most obvious features of the city presented to new arrivals, and is the more striking because of the palatial style of some of our public structures.

The Bible Hall in New Pitt-street is completed with the exception of the shop fittings, which are being proceeded with. It is, we believe, intended to open the building with a public breakfast, in about six weeks time.

The Sailor's Home, in Lower George-street, is progressing rapidly. The basement is finished and the walls are now up to the window sills of the ground floor; the portion of the building at present undertaken will be finished in about three months. The unfinished structure is already a prominent object in the environs of Circular Quay.

Seme further improvements are about to be carried out at the School of Arts, in Pitt-street. The alterations which were completed six months since added a new and handsome stone front to the old patched up premises, extending the reading-toom sealength of sixty-three feet, and adding a new room which is being fitted up as the library. It is now intended to carry back the old hall, which was formerly a Presbyterian chapel, to the end of the ground belonging to the institution, and to pull down the present heavy galleries, leaving only a small modern gallery at the enaturn end, with ornamental iron work in front. There are to be two lanters lights in the roof for lighting the hall during the day, and at nights there will be a brilliant sun light in the centre of the ceiling similar to that used at the recent exhibition. With the proposed extension the hall will be eighty-seven feet in length by thirty-six in width, and will accommodate between seven and eight bundred persons. Tenders will shortly be called for the works, which will be proceeded with immediately upon the close of the exhibition of articles to be forwarded to the London Exhibition of articles to be forwarded to the London Exhibition of articles to be forwarded to the London Exhibition of articles to be forwa has produced designs for a row of residences, which will be equal, in point of external beauty and internal completeness and accommodation, to any block of houses in the metropolis. The depth of the building, exclusive of verandahs and subordinate offices at the back, will be forty feet, and the width of each house twenty-eight feet. The houses will have stone fronts and brick party walls, and will consist of five floors the height of the stone front will be forty feet. In front of the ground floor, a verandah seven feet in depth will be enclosed by an elegant stone balustrade, beyond which, at about the same distance, there will be an ornamental iron rating. Rising from the balustrade will be fluted Ionic columns, to support with caved spandrils. Balconies will also be attached to the back rooms on the first floor. The fronts of the houses will be appropriately relieved by an enriched stene course carried along the block between the first and second floor windows. Above the cornice, which will be very elaborately carved, there will be a stone parapet with ornamental perforsitions. The stitc windows will also have tasteful mouldings and next finials. In the planning of the interior every attention has been paid to elegance and comfort. All the fittings will be of cedar, and water will be laid on in galvanised iron pipes. The rooms will be abundantly ventilated by means of flues inaerted in the chimney breasts. The kitchens will be in the basement, where a very desirable convenience is to be afforded in the fitting up of a hundry, and also a drying closet, which will be kept warm by means of a stream of heated air from the kitchen frepassing through it continually. This is an improvement which is now adopted in all the large dwellings at home, and also in the model cottages, and is quite as much needed in the centre of Sydney as it is in London. The contracts for the manonry, brickwork, and excavations have been taken by Mears. Loverridge, Brothers, and those for the rest of the work with in fitteen months. The

New Fitt street, the property of Mr. Caarles Newton, is finished externally, and is receiving the internal fittings. Mesers. Stafford and Stevens, the architects for these premises, are about directing the streeties of stores for Mr. Levicks at the rear of his premises in George-street, opposite the Hank of Australasia. There will be a massive hasement of masonry, and the premises are so designed as to be specially adapted to the requirements of the wholesale ironmongery trade. The front premises, which are now about eight feet within the building line will be carried out that distance, and have a bold and very tasteful elevation to the height of sixteen feet from the foot pavement, with a central arched entrance, and two circularheaded windows on each side, been contracted for by Mr. Sellars, will be sixty-five and seventy-nine feet in length respectively, and forty in width. Some elegant stone-fronted houses, with shops, opposite the Royal Hotel, belonging to Mr. M. Alexander, and designed by Mr. Hiller, are almost ready for the roofs. In Phillip-street, two nest stone dwelling-houses and a spacious store at the rear, the property of Mr. Starkey, are being proceeded with, under Mr. W. Beath's direction.

The alterations that have lately been made in moderniant gome of the old premises in the more central situations are very noticeable, as sensibly improving the appearance of the streets. Handsome shop-fronts, with spacious plate-glass windews, constitute an important feature in these improvements. The entire front, above the shop of a house-decorator in Pitt. street, has been covered with royal blue thequers, which give appropriateness to the designation of the establishment—the Reyal Blue House.

A tasteful building for the Municipal Council is progressing rapidly at Waverley, the walls being up to the first floor. The situation of the building will allow of its being seen from vecesies approaching the port from the southward, before entering the Heads.

COUNTRY WORKS.

In addition to the public works in the interior carried out under the ordinary appropriation of the Legislature, some of the larger works are about to be commenced, the cost of which is to be provided for by loan. The votes for these services were passed two or three years ago, and their delay has keen the subject of constant complaint—appearently the more urgent because it was believed, or at least asserted, that interest had been accruing upon the amounts of the votes ever since they were authorised, an assertion which but for its frequent repetition it would be idle to contradict.

Considerable benefit has also attended the adoption of the system of local maintenance, under which the party in charge of any portion of the road would be immediately diamissed should any impassable begin-hole be found to exist in it. A substantial work of considerable local importance has been completed during the last month; we allude to the dam at Liverpool. The old dam across the George's River was destroyed by the disastrons flood in April last year,—a large portion of the eastern bank being carried away, the stemework offered no stoppoge to the inflow of salt water from Botany Bay. Plans having been prepared for a second dam in continuation of the old one, a contract for it was taken by Mr. Gibbons. The new dam consists of two rows of guide and sheet piling, the space between which the water having been pumped out) has been filled in, and made solid, and covered with a strong pavement set in mortar. A second flood occurred before the work was cammenced, and considerably widened the channel; and after the contractor had driven nearly all the piles a third flood came, and completely destroyed his work, and widened the channel still further. The Government having agreed to bear part of the leas by this disaster, the work was once proceeded with, and after being twice interrupted and slightly injured by subsequent floods, has at length been completed, and brought into use. The length of the new dam is about a hundred and thirty feet in length from one bank to the other.

THE ALPACAS.

THE ALFACAS.

THE flock of liamas and algacas brought by Mr. Ledger from South America, and purchased two years ago by the Government, continue to thrite admirably at Arthurshigh, a sheep-station about a hundred miles from Sydney. Since their arrival in the colony the increase has seen nearly a hundred, the flock now numbering about three hundred and seventy animals in various stages of breeding. Experience has abundantly proved the climate and pasturage of Australia well adapted to their healthy propagation, in this respectfully realising all the predictions which Mr. Ledger wentured, respecting them. The work has been contracted for under Mr. Kemp as architect. The building will cost under £2000.

Steps have at length been taken towards rebuiling the Prince of Wales Theatre, by the advertising for competitive designs, a premium of £100 to be awarded for the successful one. The property was submitted to public auction, by order of the mortgages, and was purchased by Mr. Fitzgerald for the sun of £250.

any former year, the new assurances being about £37,000 more than were ever effected in any previous twelve months, while the new geomiums exceed those of any former year by upwards of £3600.

The amount paid in claims on the death of eight members was, including becauses, £4874 10a, 10d., being a rather smaller sum than in the previous year, and as amount greatly within the average on the previous year, and as amount greatly within the average on the previous year, and as amount greatly within the average on the previous year, and the set that transity to that of this floriety. Several politices have been ourrendered to the Society, and others have become void owing to non-payment of premiums, and from these causes a small profit of a nature undestrable in a mutual office has been gained. The total number of lapsed politices is seventy-four, which reduce the premium income by £329 18a, 9b.

At the close of the year the premium income cacceede £34,500, and the current assumances were upwards of £1,100,000.

The fluids of the society have increased about 25 per cent. district for the contract of the co £75,001 2 2 to enlarge the operations and enhance the prosperity of the insti-tution.

During the past year, owing to the want of sufficient room for conducting a business increasing to rangidly as that of the society, much inconvenience has arisen. The directors are now, there-fore, of opinion that the time has arrived when the society ought permanently to cetablish itself in premises of its own, with accommodation sufficient to meet the require-ments of the society's business. They have, therefore, decided, with the contemperature of this meeting, on calling a special meeting of members, to be held on Friday, August 2nd, for the purpose of authorizing the Board to invest so much of the funds as may be derined capedient "in the purchase of premises, or of land on which to build premises, in whole or in part for the use of the society."

land on which to omine premises, in whose or in post-in our new of the seniory.

On the present occasion, of the two retiring directors Mr. M. E. Marmin is not eligible for re-election; Mr. George King is eligible, and the same of the present of the present of the professional accountant, the professional accountant, have also to be elected. The retiring auditors, Mesers, Archibald Campbell and O. B. Ebeworth, offer themselves for re-election. Mr. Edward Wrench is also a candidate for office as an auditor.

OUR GOLD FIELDS.

The unfortunate and disgraceful scenes that have taken place upon Lambing Flat during the past few weeks, and the consequent excitement that has been kept up, have so far unsettled mining pursuits upon the Burrangong Gold-Fields as to have almost given a deathblow to all hope of their success. It is quite certain that the most turbulent of eur whole digging community have managed by some extraordinary means to congregate themselves there, and the steady plodding miners have, by means of the continual fera deathblow to all hope of their success. It is quite certain that the most turbulent of our whole digging community have managed by some extraordinary means to congregate themselves there, and the steady plodding miners have, by means of the continual ferment that has been maintained, been so much kept from their work that a very large number of them have left the ground. Still, withat, the escort returns here purely the samount as, from the character of the gold-field, we might have been led to anticipate. The events here briefly referred to as tending to impede, if not altogether to prevent, the development of the golden resources of Burrangong, will be found fally decreased, though latterly some very favourable returns have been obtained from quarts taken from some of the refs. Various patches of alluvial ground have also been worked in the vicinity, and have been found to be payable. In fact, the whole of the country lying between Yass and the Murray has now been proved to be auriferous, and the local papers contain constant references to new places opened and worked by some few parties of men, in all of which good payable ground has been hit.

We have no news of importance from Kiandra. The heavy winter of those Alpine regions having now set in, the work of the miner is almost if not quite put a stop to.

Prom the various Braidwood diggings, the accounts continue to be most encouraging; and those interested in its welfare have no hesitation in declaring that the steady progress of its old but still productive gold-fields is mainly owing to the presence of the Chinese. The greater part of these are men who have suffered from the different émeutes on Lambing Flat, and have only been too glad to settle down in a quiet peaceable spot that offers them such certain prospects.

The diggings of the Western District have remained, during the past month, in their usual steady position, if we except a rush made upon Rashin's station, on the Lachlan River. Bewerlained the river, and it was et once rumoured that a lar servisi additional parties have entered into tunnelling apeculations, similar to those we have already alluded to. In some of these, the tunnels have been driven in for a distance of 466 feet, but as yet no deposit has been hit upon. We mentioned in our last summary that it had been asserted that the yield of the Bingers gold-field went to swell the escort from the Rocky River. This statement has been denied by a correspondent, in whose acquaintance with the subject there can be no doubt, who informs us that 100 oss, received in January last was the only amount of Rengers gold received for transmission by the Rocky River escort.

River eccort.

The new fields on the table-land at the heads of the Charence have been scarcely spoken of lately. Nagreat finds are reported there, though it is said that the miners are all content.

It has been reported by the local paper that two auriferous and payable quartz reefs have been discovered within a few miles of Scone.

POLITICAL SUMMARY.

PARLIAMENT being in recess there is at present little excitement in political circles, the matters principally engaging public attention during the past month having been—the visit of the Governor to the Hunter, three or four elections for the Assembly, and the fatal disturbances at the Burrangong diggings.

We published in our last summary the names of the twenty-seven gentlemen who had received offers of seats in the new Legislative Council. Five of these at once refused Mr. Jones, Mr. Faucett, Mr. Marks, Mr. Close, and Mr. Oskes. A few days afterwards the members were gazetted, with the addition of Mr. A. M'Arthur and Captain Russell, but with the omission of Captain I amb, who, refusing to accept a seat if his so doing would be regarded as fettering conduct in the Council, was not appointed. It is understood that seats have been offered to Mr. Butler and Mr. Gordon, but have not yet been accepted. present appointed : -

It will be remembered that the offers of seats to these gentlemen were accompanied with a minute of the Executive Council, which stated that in making the appointments they regarded it as essential that the Land Bill should be passed in the same form as agreed to by the Assembly, and that the Legislative Council should be placed on an elective basis. Con siderable uncertainty is entertained as to how far the members of the new House will be guided in their procedure by that minute; it is, however, clear their ment as intimating their willingness to perfect the Land Bill as passed by the Assembly, and to take into consideration a measure for making the Upper House elective; as a proof of which the Emigra-tion Commissioners in England have been officially advised that the early passing of the Land Bill may be spoken of as a certainty. The conduct of those members of the new Council who in the late Chamber opposed some of the lead-ing provisions of Mr. Robertson's Land Bill, will, no doubt be influenced by their knowledge that, in the event of their refusing to agree upon those points, another and more successful attempt than the last will probably be made to swamp the House. Some surprise has been expressed that they should consent to become parties to the passing of provisions of which they have shown their strong disapproval; but they have, no doubt, been led to look upon the adoption of these as inevitable, and have considered elves bound to use their influence as far as Lossible; to mitigate their mischievous effects. The to which the members have only committed them-selves so far as regards the substitution of election for construction of a Chamber that will constitute a balancing power in the State, which such a House as that determined on by the Assembly—elected by universal suffrage and without any property qualification—never could hope to be. The high character for statesmanship and independence of many of the members of the new House is a sure guarantee for their disagreement on a number of social questions with an Assembly, the members of which owed their elections in a great measure simply to their offering to support Mr. Robertson's Land Bill. It is easy, for instance, to foresee that the crude and dangerous Chinese Bill of Mr. Lucas, which the Assembly will, of course, again pass, will be thrown out by the Coun-cil; the Bill to declare the Church and School Lands waste lands of the Crown will share the same fate. The Government can at any time use the swamping power should the Council prove too independent; but they are not likely to exercise that power unless they are subjected to a very strong pressure from without, and as the passing of the Land Bill promises to give a temporary check to political agitation, the rejection of an Upper House Bill, or of a Chinese Bill would bly not create much public indignation. The se have indeed been recently the victims of such brutal and unprovoked cruelty that a sympathy has been raised in their favour, which is not likely to render any legal persecution of them very popular. any proposal of the Assembly for its rec upon a purely democratic basis, coupled with the im-probability that either upon that measure or upon the Chinese question the Government would recommend the awamping of the nominees, point rather strongly to the permanence, or at all events to a long existence of the House now constituted; and the circumstance of some of the supporters of the Government in the Assembly resigning their seats for appointments to the Council seems to confirm that conclusion.

The recent election for East Sydney—in which Mr Forster, the late Premier, polled nearly a hundred more votes than a candidate who was supported by the personal influence of the Ministry—was well followed up by the election, for the important subur-ban electorate of Newtown, of Mr. Holt, who will join the Opposition in the Assembly. These defeats are indications, not so much of the altered state of public feeling with regard to the Government, as of the widely entertained determination to elect men of tried ability and social position in preference to those ephemeral politicians who are ready to advocate any opinions that happen to be popular. This circum-stance encourages the hope, that the men of intellect and character, whom several of the constituencies during the recent excitement about free selection refused to re-elect, will before long obtain seats in

The fatal disturbances at the Burrangong diggings, particulars respecting which will be found in another portion of our summary, will probably postpone for the present the intended visit of the Premier to Melme The opiect of Mr. Cowper's visit was to endeavour to obtain a settlement of the difficult ques-tion of the Murray River Customs. It will be remembered that the Victorian Government refused to accede to the measures proposed by our Government for the collection of the duties paid in Victoria upon articles consumed in this colony. The amount of these duties is estimated at upwards of £44,000 per annum, by the collection of which the Victorian Government is benefited at the expense of New South Wales. It was intended to the Victorian Government is benefited at the expense of New South Wales. It was intended to setablish border custom-houses, at which the duties belonging to this colony should be collected; but their operation proved very objectionable, and they were discontinued. Should the Victorian Government, however, refuse to agree to some equitable arrangement for the fide appropriation of the duties, it is considered that the re-establishment of these custom-houses will be our only alternative.

It is stated to be the intention of the Government to call the Parliament together on the 3rd of September.

RIOT AT LAMBING FLAT.

twee the departure of the truops from Lambin Plat it has been evident to many persons resident there, that the strong feeling against the Chinese that had previously broken out in disorder had anything but subsided; and our Special Correspondent, who had been sent up purposely to watch the course of events, has over and over again pressed upon the pub-lic, through our columns, the necessity for largely in-creasing the police force on the Burrangong gold-fields, if it was intended to prevent the recurrence of scenes of brutality and violence, such as it had been his misfortune to have previously recorded. No attention was paid to these warnings, coming from all his misfortune to have previously recorded. No attention was paid to these warnings, coming from all quarters; and so long as no actual disturbance took place, all was considered to be going on well. This tancied security received its first shock on the 18th of last month, on which date the cry of "Roll-up" was raised for the first time since the departure of the military.

It was successful to but a very small extent, bringing to the "No Chinese" standard some thirty Kuropesns only. These, however, were well armed with bludgeons and revolvers, the evident nucleus around which it was intended that a larger force should form. Contrally to their expectations, they were not joined by the numbers they anticipated, and their work was consequently extraed on upon a comparatively minor scale of destructiveness. They attacked and drove off from the Flat, on which by the authority of the Commissioners they were encamped, a body of forty Chinese, and were about to burn the tents and other property of the Mongolians, when luckily Mr. Henley, the Chinese interpreter, arrived, and by his prompt interference and decided stitude saved the goods, and no doubt prevented scenes of violence and crueity similar to those which subsequently occurred.

This outbreak was known to all on Lambing Flat, and was made public through the columns of the Press, and yet all those who alone were in a position to no the evil in the bud, remained willully blind to the significant act here perpetrated. Everything was allowed to go on as usual; no attempt was made to strengthen the hands of those in authority on the ground; no step was taken to prepare for the concentration of such a force upon the ground as would have overswed the rioters who has thus shown themselves as persistent in their violence.

At last the storm, which had beer so long seen, by all but those who should have been the most attentive in their ensemination of the social horizon, to be impreding, becke with a violence that at once woke upperfug, the body howen their pleasant dreams. On Suny, were aroused by the cries of "Roll up," and in the course of a very short time upwards of a thousand men, armed with bludgeoms and pickhandles, no firearm as yet appearing, were assembled round the rade kind of order of march, and with a leand of music, which appears to head, shouling, yelling, and the state of the state of the social course of a control of the cocasion by the leaders of the movement, at their head, shouling, yelling, and the state of the social could be laid was attacked and malireact, the chief object of ambition bring to secure the long tails of the social could be laid was attacked and malireact, the chief object of ambition bring to secure the long tails of the social could be laid was attacked and malireact, the chief object of ambition bring to secure the long tails of the social could be laid was attacked and malireact, the chief object of ambition bring to secure the long tails of the social could be laid was attacked and malireact, the chief object of sunbtime the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid was attacked and half the social could be laid to the laid t

So extensive and savage an outbreak could not failm at once opening the eyes of all to the real position in which the authorities at Lambing Plat were placed, and now at last was done that which should have been done long before. The electric telegraph was set to work, and all the available police from the districts round about were ordered up to Burrangong. Captain Zouch, with the troopers of the mounted patrol, surved there on the evening of the 6th instant. Several men of the foot police having come up from time to time, until the total number of the force, horse and foot, reached 57.

On the following day, Sunday, the 7th instant, there was a very large assemblage of diggers and others in the township, and though rather bousterous, there was no rioting.

Things remained in a perfect state of quiescence during the week, and it was imagined by some that this outrage, like those which had preceded it, was to be allowed to die quietly out of memory. But in the interim, explicit instructions had been received from the Government to enfore the law by apprehending every one of the ringleaders in the last riot who could be identified. No opportunity of carrying these instructions into execution, occurred until Sunday, the 14th matant, on which day, from the diggers being unemployed in their holes, and, therefore, out and about, and generally assembling in the township, the police identified and arrested three of the ringleaders in the late riot. The news of this arrest apread like wild fire along the diggings, and the cry of "Roll-up!" was quickly raised in Tipperary Gulley, which appears by all accounts to be the centre of all disturbances. The alarm thus raised quickly brought up an armed mob, the number in which has been variously estimated at from 500 to 1000 persons, which, under self-constituted leaders, who appeared to start up ready for the occasion at once marched up to the camp. Intelligence of the advance was given to the authorities, who appe

Shortly before eight p.m., the mob, all fully armed, drew up in front of the camp; but, before proceeding to extremities, sent in four delegates to have an interview with the Commissioners. They were meet by Captain Zouch, of the mounted patrol, and Commissioner Griffin; and, in the first place, asked if any, and what number, had been arrested with respect to the late rote. They were informed that three were arrested; they then stated that they were requested to demand their release. Both Ceptain Zouch and Mr. Griffin firmly yet cooly declined to release the prisoners, informing the deputation at the same time that the law must take its course—that the parties arrested would be brought before the court on Monday morning, and would then be dealt with on the evidence produced against them. With this reply, the delegates went moodily back, but before Captain Zouch could get back, a volley was fired from the mob, at the Camp. Mr. Griffin then went forward and read the Riot Act, which was treated with derlaive suighter by the mob, who still approached the camp, with cries of "Roll up," Release the prisoners." Every endeavour was made and caution given that could be calculated to induce them to desist. Orders were at last given to fire, and then one volley was fired over their heads. This did not appear to intunidate them, and at last the mounted troopers were ordered to the front. They had scarcely drawn up when a volley was fired, and two of the troopers were ordered to charge, but not the collect way they obeyed the orders they had received. The mob now closed in and approached the camp, evidently with the intention of rushing it. They were again cautioned, but heedless of this they endeavoured to make the frush of the fore police to fire, and two volleys were pourse in attempt and the collect of the camp were ordered to take advantage of this confusion, and make a final charge; and no sooner was the order issued than the cavalry were amongst the disorganised make a final charge; and no sooner was the o for two hours and more. Attack commenced at a quarter to eight o'clock, and by ten o'clock we drow them off, killing and wounding many. Three, we know, are dead, and we have heard of numbers wounded. My report will explain all. Seven special constables came to the camp—two only armed. There was no response to the call made to the respectable part of the community. Position, I found, untenable, against the numbers that were prepared to revenge the defeat of Sunday night. Some three thousand, better prepared and organised, were to attack, and had sworn to destroy the whole of us. I have brought away the whole force, wounded included.

When the police suthorities determined upon evacuating their position, our Special Correspondent, whose life had been threatened by the ringleaders in the riot, on account of the too truthful way in which had dealt with their proceedings, left Lambing Flat, and fell back upon Yasa, and thus we are without positive information in regard to the subsequent proceedings of the rioters, or to the number of killed and wounded in the repulse of Sunday night; but this gentleman telegrams from Yasa to say that three men hilled on that night were buried on Tuesday, 16th, and that at the funeral of one of them, forty men bandaged for wounds were present, and that it was currently reported that over a hundred had been more or less wounded.

Immediately on the receipt of this intelligence by the Government the Commander of the Forces was communicated with, and orders were at once given to forward on to Burrangong, detachments of the 12th Regiment, of the Artillery, of mounted and foot police, and of blue jackets from H. M. S. Fawn (whose services were offered oy Capstain Kater), the various detachments amounting to 225 men, which, with the police of the district will give a total effective force of 280 men. Arrangements were made with the mail contractors to carry up to Goulburn, the inhabitants have nobly come forward, and placed every meases of conveyance in their possession, with horses and al

THE INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION OF 1862. CONSIDERABLE progress has been made by the Commissioners appointed to make arrangements for the representation of the colony at the forthcoming Great Rabibition of 1862. They have entered upon their duties with much energy; and, regarding the work as a labour of love, they are leaving nothing undone which can capadium; any way was to be which can conduce in any way to the success of the mission which they have undertaken. In former summaries, we have chronicled their proceedings from time to time, as also the mode by which they hope to secure a fair display of our national products and industrial resources. The citizens, generally apeaking, have not a yet been fully awakened to the importance of the event, but there is no doubt that as importance of the event, but there is no doubt that as the period for the local exhibition, which it is proposed to hold in October draws nigh, the list of exhibitors will become exceedingly large. This would be the case under any circumstances, but when it is borne in mind that very liberal prizes are to be awarded in the various departments, we may rest assured that the skill and talent of our manufac-turers will be brought into play, and that the natural and industrial resources of the colons will be full. and industrial resources of the colony will be fully pourtrayed. A capacious set of storerooms have been taken in new Pitt-street, for the reception of exhibits and we need hardly say that every proper precaution is taken to guard against injury or damage of any kind. For every article sent, the commissioners issue kind. For every article sent, the commissioners issue a receipt signed by the secretary, so that the owner can experience no difficulty hereafter in respect to having his property returned, or in receiving the proceeds, in the event of his desiring to have it disposed of in Lendon. By way of inciting others to come forward and assist in so desirable an undertraking, the commissioners consent to releve the exhibitors from all expense for the conveyance of their respective exhibits. In this, we are happy to say they are liberally assisted by various individuals—the directors of the Clarence and Richmond River Steam Company, amongst others, having intimated their readmens to carry all articles which may be intended for the exhibition free of cost. In addition to gold, 110n, copper, coal, and other natural products, the New South Wales contribution will include a great variety of interesting objects, as also many specimens of industrial skill. Without attempting to particularise, we may state that the contributions already sent in or promissed, include nearly everything which can be supposed to represent the indigerous resources and manufacturing capabilities of the colony. In the department of minerals, we are promised contributions from all parts of the country, and as the list includes the names of the Rev. W. B. Clarke, Captain Ward, Mr. Kosne, and other well known gentlemen, we can safely smitcipate that a large and magnificent collection, will be got together. Our great staple, "the golden fleece," will be pourtrayed in all its qualities by the exhibits of Mr. Mort and other gentlemen who are either directly or indirectly concerned in pastoral pursuits. In the department of manufactures will be included specimens of colonial tweed and flannel, tobacco, wine, silk, pottery, jewellery, cutlery, models, cordials, manufactured akins and leather, pipes, furniture, and marble work, &c. The two departments of raw products and curiosities will include a goodly collection of specimens. For the

A Mr. Ferris, of Sydney, sends some superb specimens of carving in wood. One piece, representing "Cupid bound," is executed in a most elaborate and artistic manner. Four picture-frames in antique scrollwork, affords further evidence of Mr. Ferris's great skill, taste, and industry in this particular branch of human labour.

A door-bracket exhibited by Mr. Orans will serve to show both the beauty of our coder, and the curver's skill in following that heavy Italian scroll pattern, which is so popular at the present time. Numerous articles of furniture from colonial wood will be forwarded by Macsars. Hill and Bons, and also by Mr. Lenehan, of Cauthregath street.

Amonst the ocewals, we find some cases of maize in ceb, contributed by Mr. Underwood. These will compare favourably with any specimens that may be forthcoming from any other portion of the world, and will prove that, despite any drawbacks, our agricultural capabilities are not wholly overlooked.

A sword, manufactured, the blade by Mr. Jennings, and the hift by Mr. Juffus Hogarth, will also merit especial notice. The weapon will combine two of our great natural products, at dat the same time show that our artists and handicraftemen are not at all bihind their fellow subjects in Ragland or the workmen of the continent.

But one of the principal, if not the most interesting of the New South Walse exhibits will be a collection of sutfed akins, showing the various successful crosses of that valuable animal, the alpaca. MR. SMART'S GALLERY OF OIL PAINTINGS

AT MONA.

The opening to the public on Saturday, the lith instant, of Mr. Smart's Gallery of Painings at Mona cannot but be viewed by every chilghtened mind as a new and important epoch to our social progress—a precedent and as example calculated to produce the best possible effects in the elevation and refinement of the intellectual tastes of a large and important class in weaking and judicious. He allowed the control have gathered, one by one, many of the chaft of the control have gathered, one by one, many of the chaft of the state of a large and important class in the mother country and on the continent of Rurope. Here, however, we may take leave to say, the pleasure of aceing anything of the sort is a most refreshing and attractive novelty.—a something unhoped-for that supplies a want which has long been falt, filling up the watcum in such a manner that the privinger conceded will be very eagenly appreciated. It would, under existing circumstances, he as great boon to the rising families of the gentry and citizens of Sydney to have oney gallery of good oil paintings thrown open (with all proper restrictions of course) for public in appetion. Mr. Smart's Gallery at Mona, however, good wery far beyond satisfying what has hitherto been as much calculated and in the respect. ever the trackless ocean, many thousands of miles further than any such a goodly company of paintings ever yet sailed in the history of the known world, the valuable works of many ancient and modern masters are now safely deposited in the gallery at Darling Point, where they have been judiciously hang under the careful superintendence of Mrs. Smart. The gallery itself is a handsome piece of masonry, sixty-five feet though by twenty-five feet wide, lighted in the proper manner, by clerestory windows in the roof. On entering from the corridor the "old world" visitor is forcibly struck with the majestic aspect of the paintings, the statuary, and the many other attractive objects, which there await his inspection. In the stillness of the pluce, and at the unwonted beauty of the cony of self, he is carried back to recollections of what he never expected to find realised in New South Wales. It seems hard for him to imagine that he is any longer in busy, struggling, mercantile Australia, when he looks on this large and valuable collection from the Venetian, Italian, Spanish, German, Dutch, Flemish, and kinglish Schools of Painting. To recapitulate all the great artises which are honourably commemorated on the walls of the Mona Gallery would render it necessary for us to run through the catalogue. Suffice it to say that on the list will be catalogue. Suffice it to say that on the list will be found the names of Raffaelle, Rubens, Carlo Dolci, Ludovico Caracci, Annibale Carracci, Murillo, Mola, Guerchino, Salvator Ross, Velanguez, Gaspar Poussin, Orizonti, Gainsborrough, Albano, Van Dyck, Wouvermans, Canaletto, Guardi, Moreland, Teniers, Ostade, Cuyp, and many others; amongst which are the names of painters of very interesting and ancient pictures of the old German and Greek schoole, and of numerous artists in oil of the present days. It is worthy of particular nots that a great number of the most valuable of these paintings were pairchased at the asle of the magnificent collection of the late Lood Northwiek, who passed who passes many years on his the Masy, and was, as is well known, an enthusiastic and discriminating lover of the art.

Amongst the most remarkable pictures in this admirable collection attention has been particularly drawn to landscapes by the reacowned Gaspar Poussin, by his celebrated Flemish Imitator Orisonti, by Swaneveldt, the favourite pupil of Claude, by our own great English paintar Gainaborough (both in his Wynant's and his later style), and by a host of others, whose names attnd high in the annals of fame and art. The Flemish and Dutch schools are both well represented; of the French and Spanish there are not so many exemplars, but what there is of each includes great names, such as Jouvenet, Murillo, and Velasquez. We have not space here to describe any of these in detail, or many in England would at once, doubtless, recognise some well remembered work of art. As a specimen, however, of the high character of these paintings, we may perhaps briefly refer to number 44. The Magdalen in the Descrit, from the Northwick Collection, by Tistro Francesco Mola, that eminent Italian painter and intentor of Titian, who was born at Coldra, in the Hillanese territory, in the year 1699. The subject treated of in this picture is brought out wirk a grandeur which is hardly surpassed by the best productions of Caracci and Domonichisto. The pentent woman recilines in the foreground in an easy stittude, conforted by angelic visitanta,—which may be supposed to represent the return of happier and less desponding thoughts. Is the background set the trees see absrobe of a pathless forest, wrapped in a deep, warm, tranquilising gloom,—from which, and from the fading tints of the sky, it is obvious that the time is that of a soft summer evening. The foreshortening of the liques of Mary demands unqualified admiration. Her face has a sweet and thoughtful sir, and is turned away towards the descending cherubs; all of which are painted in with a lightness, and softness, and esse which immediately arrest the eye. The knees, breast, and arms of the Magdalen are exquisitely draws, and the colouring of the fless is that of life itself. Christ's Charge to St. Peter by Ludovice Caracci, a Holy Family by Annibale Caracci conother (a small picture) by the immersal Rofuelle (from the Lucien Bonaparte Gallery) and a Carlo Dolci—the Head of the Sacious breaking bread, a replica of the Marquess of Exeter's picture at Berleigh—site amongst the many priceless gems which have thus been brought by our respected fellow townsman to this colony, and are now liberally thrown open by Mr. Smart to the public. As we have said, it is, indeed, a new epoch in our social progress to have here amongst us such a noble collection as this—one of which the wealthiest and most discriminating of the patrons of art in Rogland usight well be proud.

THE GRRENOAKS COLLECTION OF WATER.

COLOUR PAINTINGS.

This magnificent water-colour paintings which, together with a number of raluable oil paintings, sculptures, and other works of art, Mr. T. S. Moet collected, during his recent residence in England, and brought with him to this colony, have recently been hung in a handsome gallery, built specially for their reception, at his residence at Greenoaks, Darling Point, and admission for their inspection has been kindly afforded to the public upon stated occasions. The collection, which numbers about a hundred and twenty pictures, all elegantly framed, contains some of the choicest productions of the most eminent artists of the English water-colour school, including Copies Fielding, David Cox, G. Cattermole, W. Hunt, J. B. Pyne, H. G. Willis, De Wint, S. Prout, and F. Tayler. The opportunity of inspecting these beautiful pictures has been freely appreciated and embraced by the public, and the gallery is, upon the days when it is strown open, a well frequented resort, not only on secount of the rarity of such exhibitions in this colony, but also because of the high merits and general attractiveness of the psintings.

TELEGRAPHS.

Or the telegraphic extensions carried out under the vote of the Legislature last year, only two remain unfinished, and these are in a very forward state. We reported last month the completion of the first portion of the northern extension, which carries the wire from Maitland to Murrurrundi. The second portion which will connect that town with Maryland, on the Queenaland frontier, is finished within a few miles; it would have been before this ready for opening but for the recent very bad weather. In about three weeks there will be a continuous wire from Adelaide through Victoria and this colony to the boundary of Queensland. There is no immediate urgency for the opening of the line beyond Armidale, as the wire is not likely to be much in requisition until it is connected with the Queensland telegraph, which was to have been ready at the same time as ours; it will, however, be three or four months before we shall be able to exchange instantaneous messages with Brisbane. When their line is finished the capitals of the four colonies will be connected by telegraph.

The southern extension which will connect Gundagai with Denilquis, by way of Waggs Waggs, is instant will be connected by telegraph.

The southern extension which will connect Gundagai with Denilquis, by way of Waggs Waggs, is instant of the private line between Deniliquin and Bchuca. This extension joins at Echuca with the Victorian and South Australian systems by way of Castlemaine and Ballarat, and will afford a second channel of telegraphs communication between Adelaide and Sydney, in the event of any accident with the lines in Victoria or in this colony. Until, however, a second wire is stretched between Adelaide and Mount Gambier, there will not be two independent lines between Goulburn and Braidwood—a disceiclysate the occasion, afterwards a public meeting took place presided over by Mr. King. From the report which was read at the meeting, it appears that the land on which the new change is built was given by Mr. John Christian; the cost of the structure is about gibb which amount is nearly all paid by subscription from the residents.—The annual meeting of the Sorry kills branch of the flustentiation Fund society was held on the let instant. The society is in a very satisfactory condition.

CATTLE AND SHEEP IN GOLD COUNTRIES.

THOSE squatters who, as owners of cattle properties, have been sorely tried by the depre-ciation in the value of their runs—a depreciation caused parily by the fact that the supply of cattle has overtaken the growth of the popula-tion, and that the abundance of marketable stock has been stimulated by a season of almost unexampled moisture, and therefore of unexampled pasture—may perhaps be comforted a little by the information that stockholders in California are contemporaneously in the same predicament. The gold countries in many respects have run a similar career, and, whether under monarchical or republican auspices, follow a similar line of destiny.

Both Australia and California attracted a great rush of population by the gold discoveries. In both cases many of the immigrants found gold digging harder work and less remunerative than they had pictured it to themselves when they broke up their old homes. They spread abroad accordingly into homes. They spread abroad accordingly into other occupations, and found it more to their taste to provide the commissariat for diggers than to turn diggers themselves. Agriculture and stock-keeping received a great stimulus. In Australia, the meat was already abundant. In California both bread and meat had to be supplied. The latter country is as fortunately placed for agriculture as any in the world. Abundance of the richest land is available on the banks of navigable, streams, and in Abundance of navigable streams, and in a climate that is everything the farmer could desire. The land, too, was vacant could desire. The land, too, was vacant and under no prior pastoral occupation. These natural advantages being turned to the fullest account by American shrewdness and enterpissided by the experience in subduing new country possessed by the good farmers from the old States, of which the many of the immigrants consisted, California soon supplied her own cerest requirements, and in a few years teame an exporter. Its progress in stockreating was slower, but it was equally sure. Sheep and cattle were imported and second by meritian shapedness and asburping and the competition shapedness and asburping and the properties and the present in globoling and water and the property of the property of the progress in adolest the consisted, California soon supplied her form that the consisted of the property of the progress in adolest the consisted of the property of tion must find employment. With an increase of prosperity and wealth, and settled habits in the population, and with prices ranging more steadily within a more limited range, that variety of occupations which civilisation always begets will find scope, and opportunities will be afforded for every class of taste and every scale of ingenuity. But at the same time all these occupations will of necessity afford but a limited field for employment The comparative smallness of the local demand and the competition of foreign importations will always avail to keep down such local production as cannot find a foreign market. For the same reason, agriculture must find a limit, however rich the soil may be, or to whatever extent railways may open up or to whatever extent railways may open up the country, unless indeed cotton should be successfully cultivated, and furnish us with an exportable article of agriculture.

But there are no limits assignable at present to wool-growing. We can never produce too much, and we are a long way off from the maximum of our productive capabilities.

So far, therefore, from the popular motto of "Advance Australia" being coincident with the equally popular cry of "Down with the squatters," the real fact is, that here, as in California. squatters, "he real fact is, that here, as in California, the advance of the country is identified with the prosperity of the wool-growers, agriculture and gold-digging notwithstanding. And until the pastoral lands pass into freeholds, the wool-growers must be more or less Crown tenants. It is often asked indignantly whether the colony is to be a sheep-walk? It is a fortunate thing that it is capable of being a sheep-walk, and that even the barrenest portions of it can be tunned to some account in this way. The real friends of the colony, so far from decrying and emberrassing those capitalists who are engaged in passing those capitalists who are engaged in passing the occupation of the waste lands, as has been too much the case of late, should rather bend their efforts, towards encounaging this form of industry, and reconciling it with the social and polinical," and educational wants of the community.

NewCastle, July 17.—An inquest was held yester-ay afternoon by the coroner, Dr. R. C. Knaggs, at the dailland Hotel, on the body of a man named William Morgan, who was found dead in his hut near the North shore on Monday afternoon, and the jury returned a verdict d "Died from natural causes."—Correspondent.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

BUSIC AND DRAMA.

Sixon our last Summary, the Vocal Rarmonic Society have produced Steemdale Bennett's "May Queen," with the success which always attends their efforts. On this occasion a gentleman amateur made his debut as tenor, whose fine voice created great sensation among the audience—some enthusiasts affirming that it is equal to that of Sims Reeves. Without, however, going so far, it is certain that he is a very superior singer, of great power and compass. The People's Vocal Association also gave a concert at the Masonic Hall, on Wednesday evening, the 17th instant, when Hayda's cratorio of the Creation was performed. At the Lyceum Theatre a portion of the opera of "Norma" was produced on Thursday evening last, the principal characters being supported by Mr. F. Howson and his family. Mr. Winterbottom gave a concert at the Preemsons' Hall, which, notwithstanding the judiciously selected programme, was not so well attended as the acknowledged abilities of the beneficiare deserved. A second concert or chiertainment was given at the Lyceum with a more beneficial result. The triumphs of the Marsh trouge—a company of juvenile comedians, numbering some thirty or thirty-six members—in the only event of importance in the theatrical world. This talented corps attracts full houses nightly, and evince an amount of talent which would hardly be looked for in children of their age. The "bright particular ats" the troupe is Miss Jennie Arnot, agil of eight years, who performs with all the esse and finish of a matured actress. A boy named G. W. Marsh is also remarkably clever in low comedy. In pieces such as "The Rendeavous," "Mr. and Mrs. Toodles," "The Spectre Bridegroom," &c., these two children are eminently successful, their performances never failing to clicit the most rapturous applaus.

MONTHLY COMMERCIAL REVIEW.

July 19th.

Theng is no alteration to report in the state of the money market since our last monthly report; and, sites to Hanks have reduced the interest allowed on deposits, there has been more capital offering for investment in shares and debentures.

The insolvencies during the month have not been quite so numerous, and the liabilities generally very small. The only failure of any importance is that of Mr. Riias Mosses, of Bridge-street—habilities, £24,000, assets, £15,000.

During the half-year ended June 30th, the quantity old imported into the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint, for the purpose of coinage, has amounted to 223,218 ounces, and the gold coin issued has been 766,000 sovereigns and 100,000 half-sovereigns. Total value £816,000. For the same period of the year 1860, the amount of gold named for coinage was 280,450 ounces, and the coin received 749,000 sovereigns, and 146,000 half-sovereigns. Total value £822,000. This decline in the business of the Mint is in consequence of the little gold that has lately been forwarded from the neighbouring colony of Victoria for coinage, and not to any falling off in the yield of our Gold Fields, which, during the six months, show an increase as compared with last year. At the consumencement of the year 1860, some large parcels of gold were sent from Victoria by the banks for coinage, but during the present year they have not availed themselves of this institution to the same extent.

The following table will show the quantities of gold dust received, and the amount of gold coin issued weekly, from the 31st of March to the 39th June, 1860 and 1861.

The quantity of gold dust delivered by the Escorts during the month of June from our several gold-fields amounted to 31,063 ounces. For the corresponding month of 1866 the receipts were 35,364 ounces. There is therefore a decrease of 4301 ounces on the yield of the month. This decrease is owing to the fact that at this time last year Kiandra was in its zenity, and large quantities of gold which had been accumulated and held by the diggers, were forwarded during the month; but since the rush to Lambing Flat the returns from that place are very small. The quantity of gold sent from the Lambing Plat diggings is very satisfactory, and would no doubt be much larger if the riots at this place were quelled, and the diggers were at work; but the continual "rolls-up" that have lately taken place must, in a great degree, put a stop to mining operations. During the first aix mostins of the year 1860 the quantity of gold received by the Escorts was 183,105 ounces. During the same period of the present year, the amount delivered has been 188,307, which is an increase of 5201 ounces, or 3 per cent. The following table will show the quantities received from the Western, Southern, and Northern gold-fields during the first aix months of the years 1800 and 1881:—

From this table it will be seen that there is an increase of 2758 ounces, or 4½ per cent. on the yield from the Western gold fields; and an increase of 11,200 ounces, or 12½ per cent., on the Southern. From the Northern gold fields there is a decline of 8757 ounces, or 50 per cent.

The amount of Customs revenue received for the the port of Sydney, during the month of June, amounted to £8395, is. 7d.; for the corresponding month of 1860 the receipts were £47,154 17a. 2d.; the increase on the month is therefore £120 4s. 5d., or about 2½ per cent. During the first six months of the year 1860 the Customs revenue amounted to £277,983 9s. 9d.; for the same period of the present year the duties collected have amounted to £291,415 8s. 7d., which is an increase of £13,432 7s. 10d., or nearly 5 per cent. on the half-fear.

Secretary, pro tem:

Mr. Andrew Smith.

This company has been formed for the purpose of working the northerly continuation of the anriferous quarts vein, situated upon the western alone of Mount Charcoal, and known on the Adelong as the Victoria Reef. Upon this vein the promoters of the enterprise have, by special application, secured twelve hundred feet of ground under lease from Government. Although the provisional directors have delayed placing this project before the public, to secure for their shareholders the benefit of the new Limited Liabilities Act, they have no reason to regret the step, since subsequent discoveries made in the claim adjoining their ground, places the prospects of the company beyond speculation, and enables them to assert that no mining company in either colony has been brought out under more favourable auspices, or with better promise of profitable results. In support of this statement they confidently place before their notice the fells wing facts.—

The Victoria Reef is already, by individual exertion, proved to exist as a permanent vain for more than 600 feet, the miners finding, in all instances, that as they progress in dight the quartz maintain their value, and increase in quantity and richness.

From the Victoria Reef, some of the richest quartz have treen extracted that the crushing mills of the Adelong have reduced, yielding even 12 ozs. to the ton, but the majority giving an average of from 4 to 5 ozs.

In the claim adjoining the southern boundary of the company's ground, the vein, at a depth of 170 feet, is 7 feet which, between walls, increasing as the drive progresses towards the company's ground (from which it is now distant only 90 feet), and yielding 3 to 3 lozs, per ton, very easily wrought, very little blasting being required.

Upon the company's ground there are two shafts already sunk, one 60 and the other 70 feet (abandoned at the rush to Kandrak), in both of which small veins have been extracted, yielding 4 ozs. to the ton.

The Provisional Directors propose, as made at intervals of less than three months, or to exceed los, per share, and that only should the company's operations require it.

As the directors are in a position to calculate the depth at which they may expect to strike the reef, they are confident in predicting that in a very short time after the commencement of the Company's works, they will be raising quarts, and the cencern a paying one, so that the residue of its capital will then only be required for that for which there will exist a proved certain return—the more scientific and extensive opening up of their ground, so as to extract the largest amount of quarts at the lowest possible cost.

When 600 shares are allotted, a general meeting of the shareholders will be convened, for the purpose of electing their own directory, establishing by-laws, &c., and the works of the company will commence.

Application for shares, by post or otherwise, must be addressed to the secretary of the Victoria Piencer Gold Mining Company, Adelong.

Prospectuses and forms of application can be had at the Company's agents, Messra, J. G. WALLER and CO, Wynyard-square, Sydney, until the 31st July, where specimens of quarts from the adjoining claims and a plan of the reef will be seen.

Title unquestionable. Terms at sale.

ORT and CO. have received in structions to sell by public auction, at the Rooma, Pittstreet, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 31st July, All that very valuable block of land having 52 FRET, more or less frontage to BOTANY-STREET, by a depth of 100 FEST, on which is created a substantial and commodious TWO-STORY STOME BUILDING, now let to Mr. BAITEUP as a GROCER'S SHOP.

In the basement, which is 18 inch back to back stone work, there is a large kitchen and collar, and the ground floor, shop, and back parlour, the shop all fitted up. First floor—2 good rooms. The superstructure is of brick, and of the most substantial work throughout. In the yard is a large open stable for ten horses, and other out-offices.

THE SHOP occupies about 17 feet frontage to the street, while the whole of the rest is vacant, leaving ample space for two or more additional houses.

This property can be honeatly recommended to any one on the look out for a good investment. Botany-street is the great thoroughfare between the city and the large district to the South, and from the nature of the country beyond Referen, must always continue to be the great line of traffic. The building is a most substantial one, and the large extent of unoccupied frontage affords ample space for increasing the income from the property by the erection of additional premises.

at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 2nd July, at 11 o'cleck.

CRAIGEND TERRACE, DAKLINGHURST.

This terrace is built of brick, on stone foundations, each house containing wide hall, dining, drawing, and breakfast rooms, 6 bedrooms, kitchen, pantries, &c.

The rooms are remarkably well finished, and are fitted with either marble or stone mantels, and fixed wardrober in the principal bedrooms.

Craigend-terrace was erected under the superintendence of Mr. Weave, the architect, in 1857, after an English plan, and have the advantage of every modern convenience for the comfort of a family residence. Till within the last two years they realised about £700 per sanum, and they are now reduced to a compartively nominal rent to constant tenants.

The houses are now in capital repair, and the outside walls have lately received three coats of paint.

This hale affords a rare opportunity for accuring a first-class investment in one of the most favourite localities in the city-mhe heights of Darlinghurst,—the views from which of the city and harbour say unsurpassed by any other position in Sydney.

Mount Eirington comprises an area of about 6740 acres, on the banks of the Shoalhaven River, having about three miles river frontage, about twelve miles distant from Braidwood.

The improvements consist of a substantially crected family residence, built of stone and brick, containing nine rooms, kitchen, and store; also a barn, men's dwellings, stockyard, and numerous outbuildings. A garden of about half-an-acre surrounds the house, and a short distance from it is an orchard of about two acres.
About 300 acres are cleared, enclosed into paddocks, and re Isid dewn in rich clover grass. There is also a grass siddeck of about 500 acres, and another of about 1000 acres, the latter about two-thirds enclosed.

On this portion of the estate is the well known TOWNSHIP of CHARLESTOWN, containing about 500 acres on the banks of the river, about 300 acres of which have been sold at prices ranging from 55 to 510 per acre.

STOKE contains 2560 acres, about seven miles from Mount Eirington. It is unimproved and distant from the Shoalhaven River about a mile, adjoining Nithsdale, the well known property of H. Wallace,

LOT 2.—DURRAN DURRA contains 2560 acres, about six miles from the town of Braidwood, adjoining St. Omer's, the well known estate of Mr. The unn and Captain Wetherill's property.

The improvements comprise a good stone house, not quite finished, and two small farms leased to tenants.

This estate consists of a fine open well grassed country, with a fair proportion of good agricultural land.

The following stock, &c., to be taken at a valuation by the purchaser:—

HUNTER RIVER.

FIRST-CLASS EXTENSIVE AGRICULTURAL ESTATE, RADFORDSLEIGH,

Containing about 2000 ACRES, having about one mile frontage to the Hunter River, close to the township of Black Creek, about one mile from the Railway Station on the Maitland and Singleton line, and about fifteen niles from West Maitland, together with all the valuable improvements.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at coms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 29th July, at 11 The whole of that valuable and extensive agricultural cetate, RADFORDSLEIGH, containing about 2000 ACRES, on the banks of the HUNTER RIVER.

RIVER.

The estate is enclosed by a two-rail fence in good order, and has about a mile frontage to the river.

The improvements on the homestend comprise a cottage of seven rooms and kitchen, barn, stockyard, pigstye, &c. About 20 acres under wheat, and about 14 scree cleared.

Radfordsleigh was some years ago let on an improving lease, which expires in December next, and the present tenants, (who hold under sub-leases,) together with the several improvements on the farms, are as follows.

Doolam—15 acres, under wheat; rent £14 per annum Boland—20 acres, nearly all under wheat; rent £20 per annum

Boisson as mum
annum
Murroweny—15 scres, under wheat; rent £15 per annum Hirkey—22 scres, part under wheat; hut, wheat shed, pig-stye, &c.; rent £22 per annum
Canavan—16 acres, under wheat; hut, stock-yard, &c.; rent £16 per annum

Mutle—20 acres, part under wheat; hut, shed, &c.;
rent £20 per annum

Murphy—30 acres, part under wheat; rent £30 per annum

Murphy—30 acres, part under wheat; rent £30 per annum
Sadler—30 acres, ditto ditto; rent £30 per annum.
There is still a large area of fine cultivation land on the ostate unlet, and the residue is good grazing land, richly grassed. The rental per acre derived from the few farms partially improved and let will at once stamp the value of the land and its productiveness; indeed it is acknowledged by all in the district that the allavial land at acknowledged by all in the district that the allavial land at Radfordeleigh is equal to any in the Ruster district. It is bounded by the township, the Belford and Elderalic estates; also by the Church and School lands.

Estate is not necessary to make any comment on a property of this description, and the auctionsers would simply state that the instructions received from the proprietor are to sail on the above date, and they would urge all parties reaking a first-class property, free from floods, in one of the most fertile districts in the colony to inspect Radfordsleigh prior to the sale. To graziers this estate would be invaluable, for in addition to working the agricultural land a well situated depot for fat stock could be formed.

ICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from Mr. ARTHUR C. BAIRD to sell by public auction, at the Rooma, Pittstreet, in October next,
The following well known first-class pastoral properties in the WELLINGTON DISTRICT.

LOT L.—CUMBOOGL CUMBONG and CULLENBURREWANG STATIONS, consisting of open undulating country, with about 7 miles frontage to the Macquarie River, extending to Hyandra Creek. In addition to the River and Creek there are several large lagoons on the run.

These Stations are not surpassed by any in the district. They have very large carrying capabilities; they are always well grassed, watered, and their fattening qualities are beyond a doubt. Distance from Dubbo about THE IMPROVEMENTS are extensive, and of a lities are beyond a doubt. Distance from successis miles.

THE IMPROVEMENTS are extensive, and of a superior order. They comprise a recently erected well-finished house, with hall, and 4 rooms, detached kitchen, store, dairy, men's huts, large stockyard, with late improvements; cultivation paddock of about 10 acres; graved paddock 250 to 300 acres; garden and orchard of about 2 acres, all well and securely enclosed.

With ithese runs will be sold 800 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less; a mixed herd.

This herd is a very good one, and there are a number of milkers, and a large proportion of bullocks and speyed cows.

cows.* These stations were formerly the property of Mr. George Langley, and were among the early selections of the late Mr. William Lawson, and particular attention is directed to their very large carrying capabilities, whether for sheep or cattle, and the small number of stock now sold with them.

of Mesers. Lawson, Hodd, Lee, Christy, and Wentworth. They have always borne a high character, and are second to none in the district.

LOT 4—THE SPRINGS AND CHAIN PONDS Stations, situate about 17 miles from Dubbo, and about 25 miles from Wellington, adjoining the late Mr. Hyeronimus' Geonoo station, and Mesers. Cruickelanch's Little River stations.

THE SPRINGS contains an area of about 29,000 acres, with a frontage of about 7 miles to Little River. extending to Paddy's River, consisting of well watered and thickly grassed country, suited for either cattle or sheep. THE IMPROVEMENTS consist of the homestead, a capital dwelling-house of ten rooms, wood lined and oil painted throughout, back and front verandals, kitchen, store and cellar, a garden, orchard and vineyard, of about 12 acre, a cultivation paddock of about 70 acres; a grass paddock of about 150 acres; stockyard with swing-gates; hay shed. 60 x 14; men's huts, &c.

CHAIN FONDS is a 3 square mile block of fine well-watered grazing country, about 9 miles from THE SPRINGS.

With these stations will be sold 890 HEAD OF CAT-TLE, more or less; a choice, mixed, well-bred, quiet herd.

These unrivalled pastoral properties will be sold in lots to suit purchasers. They are familiar to those who are acquainted with the district as the stations of Messrs. Donald and Baird, and are now only sold in consequence of the late dissolution of partnership. The situation could not be better, as it commands the southern markets as well as those of Sydney and the Western Goldfields.

Western Goldfields.

The runs are well watered and of a fattening nature, with valuable improvements, and equally adapted for sheep as cattle. The stock are as well bred as any in the district.

The properties, whether as a whole or in apparate lots, may be ranked as really desirable, conveniently situated, and ampairies. and superior

NEAT WEATHERBOARD COTTAGE and allotment of land at the corner of Paddington and Macloan streets, being the property occupied by Mr. Yellett, adjoining Mr. Darly's.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 22nd July, at 11 e'clock,
All that piece of freehold land having a frontage of 38 feet to Paddington-street and 100 feet to Macleanstreet, on which is creeted a comfortable weather-board cottage containing 2 rooms, lined and papered, and kitchen, yard, &c., at the rear.

This is a well-known little freehold, beautifully situated, overlooking Glemore and the harbour, and will be found a capital investment for a small capitalist.

Terms at sale.

Those extensive and well-known premises, THE TELEGRAPH INN,

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the proprietor to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on MONDAY, 26th August, at II o'clock, THE TELEGRAPH INN, GLEN INNIS, NEW ENGLAND.

THE TELEGRAPH INN, GLEN INNIS, NEW ENGLAND.

This noted inn is situated at the corner of Grey and Meade streets, opposite the court-house, and occupies about an acre of land, being lots 1 and 2 of section 15, as per Government plan.

The premises are built of brick, and contain bar and large tap-room, bar parlour and bedroom, two sitting-rooms, dining-room 20 x 15, five bedrooms, and verandahe on three sides; one kitchen, with oven, &c., store and sleeping room adjoining, large yard, 6-stall stable, two loose boxes, atockyard, pig-styes, &c.

The premises are let to Mr. Cobley for £125 per annum. The whole catablishment is in full working order, and doing the best business in the locality. A billiard room has been crected on the premises by the temant, who has the option of removing it at the expiration of his term; or it can be purchased at once by the proprietor for £350, the temant paying rent on the same at the rate of 14 per cent. on that amount.

This valuable and extensive freehold in a town daily increasing in population and value is so well known that comment is unnecessary, and the sale offers one of the few opportunities of securing a really first-class country investment. If the purchaser so desires a block of land in the main attrest adjoining the inn, and containing an area of one zere, will be also offered on the above date.

Terms—half cash; half may remain secured on the property at 8 per cent.

"Nightingale Hall, Edmonton, December 10.

"Dur Sir—I have recently suffered much from a most violent cough, proceeding from a tickling in my cheest, which no remedy, out of many I resorted to, could allay, My head was constantly aching, and my whole frame entirely shaken. Having seen the good effects of your Ballsam of Anisced in several members of my family, I purchased a small bottle, and, when coing to bed at night, took a tosspoomful in two tablespoonfuls of water just warm. The effect was immediate: it arrested the tickling in my chest, I slept well, and arose perfectly restored in the morning, with the exception of debility, arising from fatigue by increasing cough, and who had resorted to every remedy within her knowledge, I sent the remainder of a nost distressing cough, and who had resorted to every remedy within her knowledge, I sent the remainder of a nost distressing cough, and who had resorted to every remedy within her knowledge, I sent the remainder of a nost distressing in the hour purchased of the discov.

BURROWA.—The Act of Council, 6th William IV. No. 4, also the 2nd Victoria No. 2 (as amended by the Acts of Council II Vic. No. 44, and 19 Vic. No. 10), has been extended to the township of Burrowa, in the Police District of Binalong.

MAIN WESTERN ROAD.—TOLL.—A Proclamation appears in yesterday's Government Gazette, directing that the main Western Road, at a point on the eastern side of Mr. Fullsay's allotment No. 29, about half-a-mile westerly of Pitt-row, Parramatta, shall be a place at which, on and after the 2nd September next, rolls shall be demanded and taken, with scale of charges and description of vehicles.

MR. STEWART AND HIS CONSTITUENCY. A MEMORY of the electors of Sydney Bast was held last evening at the School of Arts, Pitt-street, for the purpose of hearing an address from Mr. R. Stewart, member for the electoral district. Between fitty and sixty persons were present when the proceedings were opened, and Mr. Calder was called to the chair.

last evening at the School of Arts, Pitt-street, for the purpose of hearing an address from Mr. R. Stewart, member for the electoral district. Between fifty and sixty persons were present when the proceedings were opened, and Mr. Calder was called to the chair.

The Ghahrman said that they were all well aware of what the meeting was called for. ("No, no," "Tell us.") He would read the advertisement. (The chairman then read the advertisement, amidst cries of "That tells us nothing.") He could not tell them more than here appeared, as he had received no communication from the candidate. (Several cries of "No, no.")

Mr. A. Allan admitted that perhaps it would have been as well if the advertisement calling the meeting had been something more definite; at the same time seeing that the meeting was so thinly attended, and that the inclemency of the weather promised to keep away many of those who would have otherwise been present, he now rose to move that this meeting be adjourned to some more suspicious time, when a more definite indication of what was to be submitted to the electors might be placed before them in the advertisement. He did not think that in so large and so important a constituency as that of Rast Sydney, any political proceeding ought to be taken in so thin a meeting.

Mr. Benow seconded the resolution, and in doing so stated his opinion that Mr. Stewart had treated the electors most uncourteously by adopting the style of advertisement he had done. The least their representative could have done would have been to place before them some infination of the matter that was to be dealt with. As things now stood, the electors did not know whether they were to be asked to go advertisement he had done. The least their representative could have done would have been to place before them some infination of the matter that was not on definite and the second of the matter of the meeting to the native them to be defined that when a representative called his cansituents together, it was generally understood and exp the next session. However, the unfavorable state of the weather, and the short notice of the meeting, no doubt justified him in acceding to the motion for adjournment that had been made.

Mr. Dot class thought there was no time like the present. He regretted that the wet weather should prevent a full attendance, but this need not prevent Mr. Stewart from making his statement. Though he might not address the citizens personally, he would address them through the Press, and many would address them through the Press, and many would doubtless be looking for what had transpired to the newspapers in the motning. He begged to move, as an amendment, that Mr. Stewart do new proceed with the address.

The amendment, being seconded, was put to the meeting, and carried by a majority.

Mr. Stewart said that as the meeting desired that he should proceed, he was quite ready and willing to do so. 'The subjects upon which he proposed to touch were the land question, the remodelling of the Legislative Council, the Chinese Bill, and the present state of the diggings. 'W' of Lambing Flat.' Yes, of Lambing Flat. In reference to the Land Bill, the course he had taken during the last session of Parliament was pretty well known to most of them. He had been sent into the House for a specific purpose, that purpose being to carry out what he believed to be for the interest of the community—free selection before survey: extended credit for the purchase money; and fixity of upset price. Those principles he had unswervingly supported. He had been sent into the House for a specific purpose, that purpose being to carry out what he believed to be for the interest of the community—free selection before survey: extended credit for the purchase money; and fixity of upset price. Those principles he had unswervingly supported. He had been effective for the purpose intended that the introduction of such a principle would greatly flavour the capitalist, and as greatly injure the bens lands being sold at a reduced rate, because he believed that the in fluence the speedy settlement of the question. Parliament was not to meet until the beginning of September; then, from the time of year the Estimates would be sure to be brought in early in the session, and possibly an attempt would be made to pass them. With this, and with the well-known opposition of the recently-appointed Council to any reform of the land regulations, it was very likely that the Land Bill would be again shelved for another year. ("No feer.") Some one said "no fear"; but he had great fear that such a thing would be attempted. At any rate, the public should express their determination to have the Land Bill passed during the next session. ("Yes, we'll turn out Cowper.") He did not care whether Mr. Cowper or any other minister was in office; but this he would tell them, that he would not support any Government that did not take every means in their power to get the Land Bill passed into law at once. Public opinion had been stready so fully expressed on this question, that it could only be for purposes of defeating the bill altogether that further delay would be attempted. There was another matter that should also become law during the next session, and that was the elective Upper House Bill. That bill, like the Land Bill, had been passed through the Assembly by a large majority, but had been defeated by the then Council. This had convinced him of the truth of an opinion he had always held, that the measures of reform which this country required for its benefit and advancement, would never be carried out until they had a representative body sitting in the Upper Chamber. (Hear.) He had never held a second opinion as to the utter futility of introducing into and carrying through a chamber of representatives great and valuable measures of reform, so long as there existed a body of nominees capable of defeating them. It was a state of things that could not possibly work. An elective Upper House was not a new thing for the people of this country to desire, because they had most unmistability expressed emble them to push these measures on. ("And they want it, too.") He would not sey wheth they wanted it or not, but they wanted it or not, but they wanted it or not, but they wanted they wanted it or not, but they have occupied the time of the Assembly in unnecessary discussions, and thereby defeated these measures with which they professed to agree, and which they had been sent into l'arisment to carry into law They knew that he was not a speaker that he was not a speaker that he had not done so. He had, however, seen those who would occupy haif an hour, or even they had he had, however, seen those who would occupy haif an hour, or even an hour, or even an hour, or even they had he had, however, and who, after all, would vote directly opposite to the way they had appeared. These were they who did the injury, for if a body of seventy gentlemen, assembled for the despatch of public business, could at any time have that business interrupted, and their own time come that they would not long continue to allow themselves to be thus trified with, but that they would resign their seats rather than waste their time; and thus measures that the people demanded would be defeated by those professing to the control of the seat of these half were the hand the seat of these who had forced these people and wards the Chinese Elli was also defeated by the Council last season. He believed—and he did not pretend to justify the hard measures adopted to wards the Chinese in the seat of the sea without sufficient cause. With the large proportion of well disposed persons, a force of fifty-seven men was quite sufficient to preserve peace, and it did appear singular that the number of the assemblage should have been so variously estimated. The official account gave the number as five hundred, while from another source they heard it was 2000. Was it likely that a crowd of 2000 men would allow fifty policemen to pass through them without any one of the latter receiving injury in the attack? It was wrong, he admitted, for the crowd to assemble on a Sunday night, and at such an hour; but he thought if there had been proper persons to control the police, this disaster would not have occurred. (Hear, hear.) Now was the time, however, when the people must apeak out and say what course must be pursued in respect to the management of the gold-fields in future; for what would be the result if similar disturbances snose on the gold-fields in other parts of the colony. He believed better of the diggers than that they desired to create anarchy and riot. It was only the lowest and worst characters who perpetrated these outrages, and if a proper system of registry were established, and the diggers called on to assist in excluding men who were known to be loafers and thieves from the diggings, all would be well. That there were such persons on every gold-field would be admitted, and it was mainly owing to such characters that we had now to send troops up to support the law. (Hear, hear.) It was time the public expressed an opinien on the question. There were plenty of persons fully competent to deal with it, and to advise the Government, and they must speak out. It was a most painful thing that we abould be sending news to England that the assistance of troops is necessary to keep our diggers in order; such accounts could not fail to injure the colony, and prevent people from coming here to settle. He should not detain them any longer, but would conclude by stating that the should be prepared when the Assembly met to su

In reply to Mr. Benbow, Mr. Strwart said the Government had adopted what they considered pre-eautionary measures, but that since that time fresh excitement had arisen through the arrival of 1500 more of the Chinese. He did not, of course, attempt to justify the proceedings of the diggers in the matter.

Mr. Andrew Allan then said he had a resolution to offer, which, if carried, would "strengthen the hands of the Government" in dealing with the Chinese question. He begged to move that, having relation to the late disturbances at Lumbing Flat, this meeting is of opinion that the Government ought to issue no more licenses to the Chinese on the gold-fields. (Hear, hear, and disapprobation.)

Mr. Phenna denounced the proposal as being wholly impolitie and unnecessary, and altogether irrelevant to the business of the meeting.

Mr. Glendall, thought Mr. Allan's amendment inconstrue and improper. Let them affirm approval spoken with them since the closing of Parlament; ne could not therefore say, from what he actually knew, whether they were in earnest. He had, however, a right to suppose that they intended to carry out what they had stated it to be their desire to do; and he was prepared to fortify them by voting for the measures in Parliament until they became law.

Mr. MORRISON seconded the resolution proposed by Mr. Gleadall, and, in doing so, said the Ministry could be judged only by their acts, and some of their pro-

Mr. Gleadall, and, in doing so, said the Ministry could be judged only by their acts, and some of their promises had already been carried out. They had great difficulties to contend with; and delays were frequently occasioned by those who blamed the Government for them. He did not agree that the state of stand-still into which the country had been brought was attributable to the Government: he believed that no men had ever carried so many good principles of democratic government in so short a time. He cordially seconded the resolution, and trusted Mr. Stewart might retain his seat for a long time as the representative of the clirices of Sydney.

The resolution was then put, and passed unanimously.

Mr. B. James then proposed a vote of confidence in the rest of the representatives of East Sydney; but, after an exclamation to the effect that this would be time enough when the other members came before the electors, the motion was allowed to lapse.

A vote of thanks was awarded the chairman by acclamation, before the proceedings closed.

PROCLAMATION.

(From yesterday's Government Gasette.)

By His Excellency the Right Honorable Sir John Young, Baronet, Knight, Commander of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George, Capain General and Governor-in-Chief of the colony of New South Wales, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

Whereas the Parliament of New South Wales now stands prorogued to Tuesday, the 23rd day of July instant: Now, I, Sir John Young, in pursuance of the power and authority in me vested, as Governor of the said colony, do hereby further prorogue the said Parliament, to Tuesday, the third day of September next ensuing; and I do hereby further announce and proclaim, that the said Parliament shall assemble for the dispatch of business on the aforeasid third day of September next, at twelve o'clock at noon, in the buildings known as the Council Chambers, situate in Macquarie-street, in the city of Sydney, and the members of the Legislative Council and the Legislative Assembly, respectively, are hereby required to give their attendance at the said time and place accordingly.

Given under my hand and seal, at Government House, Sydney, this eighteenth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one, and in the twenty-fifth year of her Majesty's reign.

By His Excellency's command, Charles Cowpen.

God save the Queen !

VOLUNTEERS.

(From a Supplement to yesterday's Government Gazette.)

The recent riots at the Burrangong Gold-field having rendered it expedient that a military force and reinforcements from the metropolitan police should be despatched to the scene of disturbance, it has been found necessary again to call upon the Volunteers to assist in the discharge of the garrison and patrol duties of the city.

To ensure the efficient performance of this duty, with as little inconvenience as possible to the members of the force, it is easential that both officers and men, whether in public or private employment, should be in a position to take their turn of service whenever required. To this end instructions have been given to the heads of the various Government departments to afford the requisite facilities to such of the members of the various Volunteer corps as are engaged in the public service; and his Excellency the Governor hereby invites the mercantile, trading, and other sections of the community to afford their co-operation to the Government in this emergency, by granting to those of their employés who are enrolled in any arm of the Volunteer service, such leave of absence from their ordinary avocations as may enable them to take their fair share of the military and patrol duties.

The Meeting.—Attes meeting in connection with St. Andrew's temporary church, was held in St. Andrew's schoolroom, yesterday evening. Notwithstanding the unsettled nature of the weather, the attendance was very numerous, there being fully as many persona present as the large room would secommodate; and all speared well satisfied with the fare and arragements. After tea a public meeting was held, presided over by the Rev. George King, who, with several other gentlemen, appropriately addressed the assemblage. The choir of the church sung a selection of sacred music at intervals during the evening.

COLONIAL CARINET WOOD,—A novel and beautiful specimen of ornamental wood grown in this colony has recently come under our notice. But a small quantity, it is understood, has yet been wrought, indeed the first specimen was only recently exhibited in cabinet articles by Mr. Charles Hunt, of Jamison-street. At his establishment a cheval table has been manufactured from this handsome and strongly-marked wood, which cannot fail to attract attention in the midst of other varieties of colonial and European cabinet timber. There is a decided contrast in the colours. The heart-wood is a pale yellow, unmarked; and the sapwood a dark stenna, with a fine serpentine grain at intervals (not very frequent), broken by knots. It is said to be an excellent material for cabinet articles, as it is fine in grain, crisp, yet firm, when cut in weneers, and taking a fine polish. The strongly-marked features of this wood distinguish it clearly from walnut, its characteristics being much bolder; but its quality would fit it for many of the ornamental works in which walnutwood is used. There is some doubt as to the species of this timber, some ascribing it to the pine family, others calling it casuarina, some Sweetonia, and again albumah. Mr. W. Tuckey, a practical cabinetmaker, is understood to have first brought the wood into notice, and intends we believe to visit Europe with the view of presenting specimens at the International Exhibition of 1862. It appears to be a very valuable acquisition to the cabinetmaker, and probably will add to our export of fancy woods. The tree is said to be plentiful in the extreme southern districts of the colony, growing to the height of sixty or seventy feet, with a barrel averaging between eighteen inches and two feet in diameter.

THE LATE FIRE IN GOULDLE SEET.—The enquiry into the origin of the fire which broke out in the roof of the Australian Hotel, corner of Pitt and Goulburn streets, on lest Tuesday evening, commenced at the Sportsman's Inn, on Thursday, was resumed yesterday, and again adjourned to eleven o'clock on Tuesday next.

THE MONA GALLERY.—We remind our readers that Mr. Smart's noble collection of pictures, by the sncient and mediaval masters, is open by the kind liberality of the owner, this day (Saturday) after one o'clock. Tickets to admit may be obtained from Mr. Clarke, 356, George-street.

THE LAMBING FLAT RIOTS. FURTHER PARTICULARS.

(From the Yass Courier.)

Or the three prisoners arrested by the police, one was a German carpenter, who carried a banner at the lateriot; the other a servant to Mr. M'Gurren, store-berner.

a German carpenter, who carried a banner at the late riot; the other a servant to Mr. MrGurren, store-keeper.

Mr. Commissioner Griffin, when approaching the crowd to read the Riot Act, threw open his coat to the threatening masses, saying he was unarmed and they might shoot him if they liked.

The authorities of Burrangong state that there were not many bons fide diggers engaged in the lawless acts of Sunday last, and that the mob consisted chiefly of persons who have no fixed occupation.

It is said that the leaders of the rioters had the balls extracted from the dead bodies of the unfortunate victims who fell on the preceding uight, and that they had charged their fire-arms with the same bullets, resolved that with each one of them the life of a trooper or official should be sacrificed to revenge the death of their comrades.

The disabled and dead were removed from the ground, and conveyed to the nearest public-houses during the night of the riot, the troopers standing by at the time under strict orders to suffer the removal.

Only about five of the special constables were seen on the ground, and they did not remain after the first volley was fired.

On the morning after the affray, the ground for a considerable distance was covered with revolvers, broken guns, and fragments of musical instruments that belonged to the band of the rioters. There were sad tokens of death struggles in the moist earth, and tracks of the feet of those who bore off the bodies of their comrades.

During the whole of the proceedings, which were of an exceedingly trying nature, both the mounted and foot police acted with great courage, coolness, and subordination. The rain fell heavily during the whole time.

and foot police acted with great courage, coolness, and subordination. The rain fell heavily during the whole time.

Two of the troopers engaged in suppressing the riot on Sunday were present at the outbreak which occurred at Bailarat some years ago. They describe the latter affair as nothing in comparison to the former.

On the morning after the riot the doctors on the diggings were fully occupied in looking after the wounded. One man had received a fearful sword wound down his face, which had completely severed the nose and a large portion of the cheek from the head.

The ladies of Mr. Roberts' household had left Currowang on Monday night, in consequence of threats having been made to burn the place down.

The troopers were passed yesterday while on their way to Yass by a gentleman who informed them that Mr. Roberts' station had been set fire to and destroyed. The statement, however, requires to be authenticated Last night we were informed (says the Fass Courier) that, as far as could be ascertained, the number of rioters killed was six; missing three, and wounded fully one hundred. It is believed that many fell into shafts during the charge of the troopers, and of them it is probable that some are killed.

MANUFACTURE OF GAS FROM OIL.

At the recent exhibition at the School of Arts, a neat model of an apparatus for manufacturing gas from oil or butter, was exhibited by Mr. A. A. Marshall, of Macquarie-place. Owing to the want of some accompanying explanation for the benefit of those unfamiliar with the process, the ingenious contrivance did not engage the attention which it deserved. An apparatus of the above description is in work at Mr. Marshall's establishment, and as probably few are aware from what common, almost worthless material, and with what simple machinery, "artificial daylight" is obtained, we subjoin some particulars of the process, atter a personal inspection of the operation, and also of the beautiful light which it praduces.

The material used in the manufacture of what may be termed "animal gas," is butter oil; tallow, or other fatty mater: in fact, almost everything that will melt down can be converted into gas. The material is first exposed to a moderate heat, in a small vessel, for the purpose of getting rid of any sand or dirt that may have found its way into it. The liquid is then poured into a tin box, at the bottom of which is a wire grating, and allowed to pass in small drops through a syphon into the retort. This apparatus consists of two small cast iron cylinders, passing through a furnace, and filled with broken brioks, which become red hot; the cylinders are placed parallel, and are connected by pipesat the furtherend; the oil becomes decomposed by the action of the heat, and after passing along one cylinder returns through the other. In the ordinary apparatus for obtaining gas from oil there is only one of these cylinders. Mr. Marshall's improvement consists is having two, the advantage of which is that any of the oil that may have distilled is secured and again turned into gas.

The portion of the apparatus through which the gas next passes consists of a series of four upright condensing pipes with a double iron box at their base. These vessels twenty cubic feet, and can be filled in three hours and a half. The material required for that production is twelve pounds of butter or a gallon and a half of oil refuse, which can be obtained at two shillings a gallon. At this rate a residence could be supplied with three lights at an expense of about a shilling a week, exclusive of the charge for fuel for the furnace; twenty-eight pounds of coal would be sufficient to warm the retorts. The cost of the apparatus depends upon its size, but we understand that such an instrument as that we have described would cost about $70; a smaller and simpler one could be made for £40. The odour emitted during the operation is inoffentive, and the process is free from danger.

The gas produced by Mr. Marshall's apparatus is remarkably pure and brilliant, and not only equal, but decidedly superior to that manufactured from coal. The operation is so simple, and the cost, both of material and of working, so inexpensive, that it may safely be recommended for large establishments, especially in those places in the interior where gas has not yet been introduced. We learn that Mr. Marshall has sent three of his apparatus to Goulburn, and two to Parramatta, in both of which towns they are in successful operation, and we have little doubt that in other places the advantages attending the manufacture of oil-gas will be properly recognized and appropriated.

Photographic Portantiure.—The success with which the practice of photographic portraiture has been carried in Sydney is not only gratifying as a proof of the perfection to which the art is carried in this colony, but is highly spoken of in England by those who are conversant with the works of the most eminent photographers. That this success depends not so much upon the exquisite transparency of our atmosphere as upon the patient labour and artistic skill of the photographers, any one who will take the trouble of comparing their exhibited productions will readily and certainly ascertain. The difficulties which photographic artists, with the most complete appliances at their command, have to experience before they can turn out really good portraits are probably not realized by those to whom the taking of a portrait appears a very simple and easy process. It is gratifying to observe how thoroughly in the productions of the leading Sydney photographers these difficulties are overcome, especially in that most popular branch of their art—portraiture. We have lately had the pleasure of inspecting the gailery of Mr. Denslow, photographer, in King-street, and we have no hesitation in stating that many of the portraits would do no discredit to the first photographers at home. The portraits to which we refer are taken on glass, by the collodion process, printed on paper, and beautifully coloured in water colours; for accuracy of delineation, softness of tone, and truthfulness of colouring it would be scarcely possible to surpass them. We may notice particularly portraits of Mr. Forster and Mr. Eagar, which, being exhibited, speak for themselves; they are thoroughly lifelike and characteristic, and display the skill not only of the photographer but also of the artist. Those who may be inclined to visit Mr. Denslow's gallery will see equally creditable specimens in the various styles of photographic portraiture.

The Theatrae.—To-day, at half-past two o'clock, there will be a day performance, comprising the grand fairy bur PHOTOGRAPHIC PORTRAITURE.—The success with Scors' Church, Church-Hill.—In accordance with previous intimation from the publit, a meeting of the members and seatholders of this Church took place on the exening of Monday last. The Rev. John Reid occupied the chair. After the usual devotional exercises, Mr. Thomas Shade, secretary, submitted to the meeting a statement of the income and expenditure of the church for the six months past, commencing from the lat of January of the present year. It was found that the revenue for that period from seat rents, collections, and other sources, amounted to five hundred and twenty-five pounds (£205), and that after meeting all demands, a small surplus remained in the hands of the treasurer. The revenue for the whole year amounted to one thousand and sixty-five pounds, (£1065). In addition to the financial report, reference was made to the Rev. Mr. Reid's Bible class for young persons, and also to the Sabbath school, both of which were represented to be in a prosperous state. The meeting was a very harmonious one, and all seemed pleased with the present appearance and future prospects of the congregation.—Communicated.

Astonishing Indifference.—The Robart Toom Mecury of the 8th instant asys.—The whaling enterprise of Tasmania is very justly accounted one of its leading interests. We have often urged the formation of a whaling company, with a view to the conduct of this branch of commerce on an enlarged scale, and with the true economy of combined resources and systematic plans. A recent series of articles on the subject met with such general approval, and elicited so many verbal expressions of interest and sympathy, that we were disappointed to see the project fall still-born to the ground. It fell a victim to the want of spirit and pluck, the want of reliance in ourselves and faith in our ressurers, which is the present curse of this colony. A sharp, prompt, sure remedy, once proposed for the cure of the il prompt, sure remedy, once proposed for the cure of the ills of another island, would not be altogether unsuited to this colony. If we could sink the place under the ses for a few hours, and then people it with a new race, one of the most richly endowed lands which God has ever in his bountiful providence created, might possibly have justice done to it, and the seeds which nature has sown in its soil be made to yield the fruits of a prosperous harvest. We may give offence by saying these things. But it is truly hard to be silent. Surely there was never a land with equal resources so ungenerously dealt with; never a people so reluctant to tread the road to wealth. Even mathematical demonstration of the certainty of getting rich will not move them. No scheme was ever projected more sure in its promise than the pursuit, on a scale of commensurate magnitude, of the southern whale fishery.

The Tabrahian House of Assembly.—It is expected that the New Parliament will meet for the dispatch of business not later than the first week in August.—Les positively contradicts the statement that Lord Herbert is about to retire from the War Office.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—A brigade order has been issued calling out the Volunteer Rifles to mount guard, and as it is extremely probable they will be out six months, no more opportunc time than the present could be found to determine whether their pay is sufficient or not. The public generally has expressed an opinion in favour of an increase—eight shillings a day is the lower that should be paid, that being lower than a mechanics' day's wages where skill is required. The pay at present is five shillings per day, so that a volunteer is not only expected to train himself at a serious expenditure of time and labour, but when on service required by the Government that he should involve himself in actual loss. There is something wrong here, either volunteers should not be paid at all, or if paid, should be paid a fair day's pay for a long day's work.

It is not intended to imply by this letter that the volunteers are dissatisfied, much less that they will not cheerfully respond to the call of duty, but as a matter of principle, what remuneration shall volunteers receive (if any) for services rendered on behalf and by order of Government? Volunteers are now found more useful than at one time they were expected to be, seeing that twice within a year the Government, by their assistance, has been enabled to remove the military to where its presence was demanded, and recover and maintain that power and authority, without which a Government exists but in name.

CHARLES CADBY'S PATENT PIANOS.—
W. J. JOHNSON and CO. beg to draw especial attention to the above colebrated maker's PIANOS (early grovers, Wine and Spirit Merchanta, beg to universally known for standing well in tune), of which they have a very large and varied stock in every variety of wood and design.

CAIBY'S PATENT IRON TRUSS, statched to his pianos, is particularly recommended, as it forms a perfect resistance to the pull of the strings, and thereby preventing the sounding-beard from bending. These, and many other injurious consequences, by this excellent invention are entirely obviated.

CHARLES CADBY'S BOUDOIR PIANOS are well suited for transmittance into the country, and for small residences. They are brilliant in tone, clegant in appearance, and very moderate in price.

Council.

This property is peculiarly well situated. Each homesteed alloument fronts upon the Cornwallis Road from WINDSOR to RICHMOND, and is within half an hour's drive of the proposed site for the Windsor terminus of a KAILEOAD TO SYDNEY.

Excepting some portions of the Homesteed Allounsits, which are never overflowed, it enjoys the advantage of being sufficiently flooded to keep its soil inexhaustibly rich, and yet is so well drained by Cooley's Creek and another, that water seldom remains long enough upon it to injure its crops.

that water seldom remains long enough upon it to measure its crops.

As some measure of the value of this land, it may be mentioned that allotments of an adjoining estate—without either river frontages or homestesdes—sold in October, 1896, for £35, £37, and £40 per acre, and that at the sale of a part of this estate, in 1857, the four river frontage farms immediately west of the land here advertised, were sold for £42 and £44 15s, per acre.

 Farms of these estates are now rented for £2 per acre!

AUSTRALIAN HORSES FOR MILITARY PURPOSES.

Dearns the mission of Colonel William Pitt Robbins, of her Majesty's Indian army to these colonics in 1868-9, to purchase evalty horses for the Bengul Army, he visived the principal breeding districts in New South Wales and Vivtoria, and it may not be uninteresting to publish a document which has recently come before us, embracing his official report as to the quality of the horses he purchased, which report we believe was transmitted to the Imperial and Colonial, as well as the Indian Government, pravious to his return to Calcutta is 1860. The opinion of an efficer of auch acknowledged judgment and experience—who versonally selected and passed from three to four thousand Australian norses, to the satisfacing of the Indian Government—we think sufficiently valuable to entitle it to every publisity and the officer in question to the thanks of our horse breeders for the justice done to the country producing so good a class of stock.

Sir,—I have the honour to a boar for your consideration.

the cape and Accitation below for earlier purpose in India.

Having row been appeared of twelve months in New South Wales and Victoria, burchasing on account of Greenment, and during that period thousands of borsos have passed union may be for inspection, the best of opportunities have been afforded me for judging of almost every stamp of borse bred in these colonies. Fam the more induced to express my views from their divering, as the key deep risely with those of a brother office, holding a similar mission as myself at the Cape, and who recommends the Cape burse as the best be has seen out of Europe, thus supprises me the more as that office was our basing in these colonies many years ago.

"BELLS $1118," dated Lendom, 25th September last, publishes an extract of a letter, stated as having been addressed by the remount agent at the Cape to Major Hops, regarding the South African horse, and reporting the same in he opinion as the best qualitied for military service in India.

On arriving in Australia in Capille 1852.

pusiness an extract of a letter, stated as having been adreased by the remount agent at the Cape to Major Hops, regarding the South African horse, and reporting the same in his opinion as the best qualined for military service in India.

On arriving in Australia, in October, 1857, to pure? on broken-in horses adapted to boary dragsens, I found great difficulty in meeting with many that were really broken, free from symptoms of hard work and sound. The best of shoce tendered me were scheeted, but I believe the horses that were not broken, with the seveption of the Tasmanian horses) were the fitte-t and best for the service, for in no part of the world! Is the borse considered a byoken-in animal for every description of work. So soon as he is in these colonies two or three daysuffices for a warranty of the sort. In these few days the animal goes through every description of painful severity, until his spriit is completely broken, and when so substeed he is considered to be sale-able, when, in fact, he is werse than before he was bandled, as he believes man his enemy, and often shows it to an alarming degree to thore who may purchose kim.

But, to speak of the Australian colonies as a cannity to formish horses for military services in India, I can safely say, as far as my experience goes, no other country every England has its equal, supplied as Australia is with time grass lands, to an extent almost beyond calculation, such pasture containing that substantial aromatic quality, which accounts for the great star and substance the horses at the Cape is, in my opinion, the chief research of the great stariniess of growth in the horse of that colony, and not as being the produce of the Arab, which the remount agent there so condemns, for where the Arab horse has been indiciously crossed, the stud, I should say, has been generally benefited, and more particularly for the very horse India is now in need of. Fer in the third and future generations, the cross of the Arab is not wanting in disc and power. I have yet to lea but it is expected that with the return of the more favourable season the members will muster as nume-rously as ever. Bull practice has been commenced at a site well suited for the purpose, two or three miles out of town, but no butts have yet been erected. In connection with this subject I may mention that Mr. Pass of this town, has just received from Ragiand a most handsome elegantly finished rifle, from one of the leading manufactories, which for the superiority and completeness of its apparatus, is deserving of motice. It is one of Whitworth's heavy brigade rifles, and, with its complete appliances, is litted in an oak exe. The rifle, may be seen at Mr. Pass' establish-ment.

The Third Australian Champion Race.—After a temporary suspension, rendered inevitable by circumstances, the Stewards of the Third Australian Champion Race have resumed operations to carry out this great sporting event with redit to its originators, and with all honour to the colony. On Tuesday week, a meeting was held at the Derwort Hotel, Murray-street, which was well attended, and at which some important resolutions were adopted. On Wednesday evening lest, another meeting was held, and the progressive business of the meet was still further carried out, so that there is every prospect of a most gratifying result. The racecourse, to which a new saddling paddock will be added, will be so repaired and improved, as to render it equal if not superior to any course in the Australian colonies, and arrangements have been made to establish telegraphic communication with a new Judge's Stand, so that the result of each race will be immediately transmitted through the wire as far as it extends throughout the island. In addition to the great event of the first day, it is proposed to have two other days to be devoted to other races, and this will leave open a large margin for sporting competition. Tasmania has estained a deserved renown for her breeding of blood stock, and to impart to this great occasion not only a sporting variety, but an eclar which we think can be well maintained, we would recommend that every district should enter its horse, distinguished by a characteristic name, and sent forth as the competing champion of its respective locality. If no individual feels inclined to incur the supense of training and entering such a horse, let the settlers subscribe for the purpose, and thus all parts of the colony will derive an interest in the event, which will tend to enlarge its importance, and to show our neighbours that tart affairs here do not exist merely in name, but as a great and tangible reality. As far as matters have progressed hitherts, we have eve

The Finitation Commission and Voluntaryism.—Perhaps the most atriking impression which will be made upon the reader of the report will be produced by its testimony to the marvellous power of the voluntary principle. When the commissioners made their statistical enquires there were not less than 2,335,462 children attending the week-day schools of England and Wake. Of these only 917,255 were on the books of schools in receipt of government grants. The education of the remainder was provided for entirely without aid from the government. But the sid rendered by the State furnishes only a small proportion of the income of the schools in receipt of the Privy Council grants. The commissioners divide the source of income of schools into five branches:—I. The government grant; 2. School feet paid by the parents of the children; 3. Subscriptions; 4. Endowments; and 5. Other sources, such as collections in churches and chapels and occasional donations. It appears, from a tabular statement of the respective amounts derived from these sources, that the income in the schools aided from the government fund does not average more than rive shillings in the pound; voluntary resources contributing the remaining fifteen shillings. The gratifying improvement, therefore, that has been effected during the past few years in the attendance of children at schools is nearly altogether owing to voluntaryism. To it is almost entirely due the maintenance and the extension of the 22,000 week-day schools of Ergland and Walea.—The Liberator.

Westley Richards Breech-Loaders.—Messra, Westley Richards and Co. of Rigminsham have included.

voluntaryism. To it is almost entirely due the maintenance and the extension of the 22,000 week-day schols of Ergland and Walea,—The L-berator.

Westley Richards and Co. of Birmingham, have just completed an order from the Government for some of their breech-loading rilled muskets, with Whitworth barrels. They are to be placed in the hands of a certain number of line regiments, in order that a more extended trial may be given them, the Ordanance Select Committee having satisfied themselves of the value of the invention as a military weapon. These rifled muskets have an accurate range of 1200 or 1300 yards. They are the same length as the Enfield rifle, and of equal precision with the Whitworth; indeed, on referring to the report of the National Rifle Association recently published, it appears that the three great prizes, the Prince Consorts, the Duke of Cambridge's, and the Duke of Wellington's, each at 500, 900, and 1000 yards, and open to all comers of all nations, were cash won with Westley Richards' breech-loaders, the guns used having been made for the Government. This is sufficient to show the accuracy of the guns at long ranges, and their adaptation for military purposes.
This firm has also large contracts on hand for breechloading cavalry carbines, rifled on the same principle as the muskets. They are a light and handy weapon, being only six pounds in weight, and having an accurate range of 1000 yards. Some of those arms were sent to Chins for trial during the late war. The report satisfactory in every respect. The ammunition is represented as being the strongest and best adapted for military purposes of any that has been served to the troops; it is further added that a misfire is almost satisfactory in every respect. The ammunition is represented as being on the codings—These, May 18

Police Ovyice.—No business of importance has occupied the bench this week, one or two cases of drunken.

Research having been disposed of by Mr. Langley. On the Saturday previous, the proceedings of which day I have not yet recorded, Mesers. Langley and Neale sat, and Philix Phelan, convicted on a former occasion for stealing property, was brought up on asspicion of having stolen goods in his possession. The putolined serticles found in his possession were numerous, ranging from a ready dressed sucking pig to a pair of boots. The prisoner, electing to be dealt with summarily, was sent to good for 6 months, with hard labour.

A slight accident occurred on Tuesday evening at the Parramatta Railway Station, in "shunting" some tunks from one line to another, when their onward course not being arrested in time, they came into collision with the door at the eastern end of the good station which was closed for the night. The injury done by the collision was confined to the smashing of the door and a truck.

River Convs.—The attendance at the parades of the corps has shown a considerable falling off latterly, but it is expected that with the return of the more favourable season the members will muster as numerously as ever. JOHN BAPTIST, in roturning thanks to the public generally of New South Wales and the neighbouring colonies for past favours, ofters for SALIS, this season, the most extensive and varied stock of FRUIT TREES, Flowering and Ornamental Trees and Shrubs, to be found in the Australian colonies.

The soil of his establishment being naturally poor, and exposed to the most trying winds, the advantage to purchasers getting trees from such a situation is evident. John Baptist ofters this explanation, as many parties are under the impression that all fruit trees, plants, &c., offered for sale by him are grown on rich soil.

John Baptist respectfully solicets intending purchasers to call at the nursery, and view his collection provious to purchasing, as he firmly believes they will be pleased with the growth and healthy state of all plants which will be offered to them.
